Protestantism Declining?
In the World Court, Soon?
Speakeasies and Opera

WHAT IS THE NEWS? There is a good deal. The storm continues to rage off the British coast, 65 lives lost, six more vessels founder, 50 ships in distress. England has been cut off from France, too rough on the water, too rough in the air.

Some British and French will work harder than ever about a tunnel under the Channel.

The Pope finds, at this Christmas season, cause for rejoicing. A semi-official message from the Vatican reports that, in the course of a solemn ceremony, approving the beatification of 136 English martyrs, the Pope said: "Protestantism is getting more and more exhausted until it has reached the point when its own very sterility is inspiring many with a nostalgia for Catholicism."

Pope Pius remarked that the Church was emerging triumphant from the duel with the state, referring to the recent agreement with Italy, and added: "Thus confronting Protestantism today Catholicism breathes in a free atmosphere, while Protestantism rises on ever wearing itself out."

Mr. John Y. P. Moffatt, representing the United States at Geneva, signs the protocol that, if nothing happens to prevent, will land us in the World Court.

The Senate is to be heard from, but, probably, it will agree with Mr. Moffatt, and the European powers that Americans are not able to decide important questions for themselves and need a little help from Europe. Not one of the senators or any other fact helps to put the United States in the power of a hostile European court would think of referring his own private affairs to a court of European judges hostile to him.

The United States Supreme Court ought to be good enough for the United States.

Everybody knew that the speakeasy was more powerful than prohibition law.

Mr. Rockefeller assembled some blocks in New York, intending to build a civic and commercial center around a fine opera house.

Speakeasies have some subleases on the land in the heart of New York, very valuable, and the speakeasy proprietors will not get out, won't consider selling their leases.

Thus the speakeasies will remain and the opera house will not be built.

Yesterday, Walter S. Gifford, head of the big telephone company, said to his telephone representatives: "Give me the commander of the Leviathan." In a few moments he was talking to the Steamship Leviathan, 200 miles out at sea. That would surprise Jonah.

Washington reports that "the administration," which means President Hoover, is anxious to have Calvin Coolidge elected Senator from Massachusetts.

9 DEAD IN MOVIE STUDIO FIRE

Battling Fatal Film Flames That in a Flash Snuffed Out Nine Lives Today

Telephoto of the battle firemen waged today when flames swept the Pathe film studio in New York. Nine lives were snuffed out; 100 persons had narrow escapes, many of them plunging from windows, and a dozen or more were injured. The fire spread with the rapidity of a flash and the trapped victims had no opportunity to escape. HUB GIRL IS DEAD IN N. Y. BLAZE

New York, Dec. 10—Nine persons, five men and four women, are known to have been killed and several are still missing in a fire which swept a three-story brick studio of the Manhattan Studios, Inc., and the Pathe Motion Picture Exchange at Park ave. and 134th st., today.

The fire was of undetermined origin and swept through the three-story brick building with the rapidity of a flash.

The identities of the dead was not immediately learned, but they were all believed to be from New York city.

Miss Edna Elizabeth Burford, 19, movie actress burned to death in the studio holocaust, was the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Burford of 328 Hurley st., Cambridge, Mass. Before entering on a stage career she was a junior at Cambridge high and Latin school, and in 1925 entered the theatrical profession.

Ruth C. Goodwin, also a Boston girl, escaped with her life at the fire. She is a grandniece of the late Nat Goodwin, and made her initial appearance on the stage of the Tremont Theater here in "Oh, Please."

More than a dozen other persons were seriously injured, either from the flames or from jumping to safety from the windows of the three-story brick building.

One hundred persons were in the studio, about 75 of them being men and women performers, and the others studio employes.

The stage was set in the rear of the first floor of the building, preparatory to filming a

Weds Brookline Man and Loses Alimony

By her marriage to Arthur C. Tilton in the New York City Municipal Chapel today Mrs. Mildred B. Waterbury, 43, of 95 Carlton st., Brookline, gives up $250 a month alimony which was being paid to her by her former husband, Cleveland L. Waterbury.

Both parties in today's marriage, performed by Deputy City Clerk J. J. McCormick, were previously married and divorced. Tilton gave his address as 1397 Beacon st., Brookline, today.

Mrs. Waterbury obtained a divorce April 16, 1926, in Tulsa, Okla.

By her marriage today the bride forfeits her chance to get nearly $81,000. Under the terms of settlement in her divorce, her first husband was to pay her $80,000 at the rate of $250 a month until she miniature review, titled the "Black and White Revue." The orchestra leader and his 11 musicians were waiting for the signal to start playing. The cameras were ready.

BODIES IN HEAP

On the floor above about 25 chorus girls, many of them not yet dressed in their scanty stage clothes, were waiting their calls.

There was a flash from the backdrop and flames and black smoke rolled across the stage.

Immediately all was in confusion. Men and women fought to escape from the flames, which almost immediately were sweeping through the whole building.

Police reserves, fire engines and ambulances began arriving immediately, but there was nothing that could be done to help those trapped in the building.

For more than an hour the fire raged and then, as the flames died down, the bodies were found, most of them just inside the 13th st. entrance to the building, where they had but a step or two from life and safety.

Although several of the bodies were badly burned, most of the victims had died from suffocation. Two leaped to death.

Two priests from a nearby church administered the last rites.

A temporary morgue was established in a factory across the street from the studio and there the injured, most of whom were suffering from burns, were given emergency treatment and taken to hospitals in their home districts.

RAGING INFERNO

All available ambulances were summoned to the scene. Four alarms were sounded, calling apparatus from all sections of Upper Manhattan.

Many members of the cast of Harry Delmar's revue, which were in the studio building originally when flames burst through the wall on the first floor.

Shortly after the lazy material in the studio and soon the structure was a raging inferno.

Girls screamed and rushed for the exits. Men and women, both, scrambled to the floors above driven up by the sweep of flames.

A large crowd, attracted by the screams and the fire, congregated in the streets nearby as the fire department responded to the scene.

Carl Edouarel, 55, musical director of the revue, was the first person to break out of the burning building. He leaped through glass and a window sash, landing on the sidewalk in a crushed heap. His leg was wrenched, perhaps broken. He was taken away on a stretcher, still conscious, however.

"Save them, save them—the girls! They're penned in in there!" he moaned. Then he fainted.

LEAPS TO DEATH

A girl, her flimsy ballet dress in flames, screamed as she jumped from an upper floor window. She lay still as she crashed to the cement sidewalk. Doctors said she was dead by the time she landed.

Probably 15,000 people jammed the streets nearby back of the fire lines. Police wielded their clubs freely to keep the crowds from interfering with the work of the firemen.

The studio is located on the river front and firehose poured tons of water on the burning building.

Offices of the Crane Co., in the immediate vicinity, as well as the warehouses of that company, were turned into shelters for half-clad girls who managed to break out of the blazing structure.

Firemen gave blankets to shivering women and girls.

Within half an hour five seriously injured persons were received at the Harlem Hospital.

No one seemed to know how the fire started. The first knowledge that anything was amiss came when a billowing wave of smoke swept across the main floor of the building.

Several persons in the neighborhood claimed to have heard an explosion.

Three companies of actors were in the studio, it was said, when the fire broke out. A sound picture—a Pathe comedy, directed by Arch Heath, titled "Scared to Death"—had been completed yesterday. In addition to the Delmare Revue, a comedy directed by George Lemaire and a third picture had the bourse today.

By the time the fire engines arrived the studio building was a mass of flames and huge billows of acrid smoke were pouring from the structure, smarting the eyes of spectators.

Deputy Chief Donnelly immediately sounded second, third and fourth alarms, calling apparatus from the Bronx and many parts of Manhattan, and police emergency squads and reserves were soon at the scene.

Fed by inflammable film, the fire quickly made an inferno of the interior of the small brick building. Escape cut off by the flames, many persons barely saved their lives by jumping from windows.

Firehosts played streams on the flames from the Harlem river.

One woman, seriously injured, was at once rushed away in one of the many ambulances that responded to the calls sent by police. Her name was not obtained. Two men, burned about the hands, were then taken to Harlem Hospital.

GIRLS IN PANIC

The stage was set in the rear of the first floor of the studio, and Eddie Elkins, orchestra leader, had his 14 musicians in a position to start the overture for a miniature revue, produced by Harry Delmar.

On the second floor about 30 women, in costume, were waiting their call for the director.

With cameras in position, director ready and cast awaiting the call to "shoot," there was a flash from the black velvet drop in the rear of the stage.

Flames followed and the studio crew, according to reports made to police, uncoiled a line of hose and started to fight the blaze.

Girls attired in flimsy ballet costumes, rushed for exits. Finding all three on the main floor a mass of flames, they dashed upstairs and many of them leaped from windows.

A score of injured were taken to various hospitals. Fire equipment from all parts of upper Manhattan was rushed to the scene and firehosts also poured water on the burning structure.

So intense was the heat generated by the flames that firemen were unable to enter the building until almost half an hour after they arrived. With amazing rapidity the flames, fed by quantities of film and papier maiche used in making sets, spread through the structure.

Men and women on the second floor were cut off from the exits. Those on the first floor were blinded with smoke. Those who could their way out were on the verge of collapse.

The acrid smoke almost overcame the firemen, and when they re-entered the structure they used dampened gas masks.

WILD CRY OF "FIRE"!

There was a rain of blazing comets as the young women, in their gauzy costumes, jumped from the windows.

Elkins and his orchestra were on the studio stage when the blaze broke out. The ballet girls were in their dressing rooms waiting for Director Delmar to call them to the camera stage.

Screams of "Fire!" rent the place, precipitating panic. The smoke and flames shot upward to the second floor where the other girls and studio force were preparing for work.

John C. Flinn, vice-president of the Pathe Company, was seated in his office on the second floor with his secretary, Frances Walsh, when he heard the cry of fire and on opening the door saw carpenters scene shifters, musicians, actors and actresses rushing toward the exits as the studio filled with flame and smoke.

He said he closed the door and escorted Miss Walsh to a balcony on the Park ave. side where they remained until the arrival of the firemen, who ran up a ladder and helped them to the street.

MAN ASPHYXIATED

Flinn said that the picture being filmed was the "Black and White Review." He said this was the second day of filming the picture and that everything was in readiness for the cast to begin the picture when there was a burst of flame from a large velvet drop in the rear of the stage. He said there was no explosion.

Flinn said that he was that of a female-impersonator. His body was little burned and he apparently had died of suffocation.

The flowing tresses and brightly colored cheeks and lips made an incongruous picture as firemen carried the body to a waiting ambulance. It was not then identified.

An hour and a half after the fire started it was brought under control and an incomplete search of the ruins revealed no more bodies, leading to the belief that all except nine had escaped.

Mr. Flinn said that his company did not develop film in the studio, that they had only a film-loading room.

The bodies of those who lost their lives were found, according to the firemen, at an exit on the 13th st. side of the studio.

PRIESTS GIVE RITES.

When the bodies were carried to the street, several of them burned almost beyond recognition, the casting director was called on to make such identifications as he could. He made the identifications of four of the bodies.

News of the fire spread rapidly, and among the first to arrive were the Rev. George C. Murdock and Rev. Joseph M. Walsh of All Saints Roman Catholic Church, who administered the last rites.

Harry Ford of the Bronx, master electrician at the studio, denied to Assistant Fire Marshal Sam Willis that the fire was caused by an electrical flash. He explained that the curtain was seen to flare as it was lowered, but that no current, beyond that of the regular lighting, was on at the time and the cameras were not yet working.

'JEKYLL-HYDE' GIRL'S DEATH UNSOLVED

Believe "Perfumed Slugger," Held for Many Crimes, May Have Slain Love Teacher

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 10 (AP)—In search of a motive for the slaying of Miss Cordelia Gunnemeimer, attractive school teacher, found beaten to death in her apartment Sunday, authorities today were confronted with conflicting details picturing her at once as a matter-of-fact schoolmarm and as a woman of secret loves.

As her friends knew her, Miss Gunnemeimer was a teacher devoted to the foreign language department at Rockford high school, taught day and night and whose diversion consisted of an occasional night at bridge with women friends.

To the authorities she presented another picture—a woman admired by two men, neither of whom knew of the other, and each of whom protested his love for her in frequent letters.

While an eccentric dentist, Dr. Floyd Lenerd, was still in custody because he had been seen in the neighborhood of the teacher's home the night she was killed, authorities said they had no evidence to link him with the crime.

One of the teachers' correspondents, Glen Wiseman, is in Tarpon Springs, Fla., and the other, Roy Scribner, in New York.

"Perfumed Slugger" Held for Washington Authorities

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 10 (AP)—Lloyd Fathers, who police are sure is the "perfumed slugger" whose attacks on women aroused the Pacific Northwest last year, was held today for Seattle officers.

Illinois officials, too, showed interest in the man. They wanted to know if he was in or near Rockford, Ill., when Miss Cordelia Gunnemeimer was killed. Officers here, however, scouted the theory.

A score of attacks upon women last year were laid to the same man because the victims all said the attacker was strongly scented with heliotrope perfume.

Courthouse Bill Nears Time Limit

With only three weeks remaining before it will die a natural death, the $5,000,000 courthouse bill remained in a state of coma in the arms of the City Council executive committee today.

Several members of the Com-[illegible] meanwhile made denials that [illegible] had been approached with offers of $1500 to favor the measure [illegible] times defeated.

Chairman Goodwin of the Finance Commission said he was not going to investigate the bribe charges declaring it was a matter for the district attorney to deal with as he saw fit.

It was pointed out at City Hall today that the present administration, while wholeheartedly in support of the measure, has failed to this day to file an order asking that the act be accepted. Mayor Nichols has sent to the Council merely a recommendation that the act be accepted. All orders asking that the act be accepted have originated among the members themselves.

Denial that they had been approached with a $1500 bribe either for or against the bill was made today by President Timothy F. Donovan, Councillors Frederic E. Dowling, Frank B. Sullivan, Israel Rubin, Thomas W. McMahon and Michael J. Ward.

On August 12 last the City Council voted as follows on the acceptance of the act:

Yes—Fitzgerald, Keene, Lynch, McMahon, Parkman, Wilson. Total—6.

Warm Reception as Ritchie Arrives

police departments upon the prohibition law.

Into a city openly hostile to him and his views in many quarters, Governor Ritchie came this morning, "not knowing whether to be amused or flattered" at the furore his coming had stirred.

He was met at Back Bay station by a detail of police and members of the Liberal Civic League, which sponsors his speech at Symphony Hall this evening.

TALKS WITH ALLEN.

After breakfast at the Hotel Statler he discussed his visit with newspapermen, then went to the State house, where he called upon Governor Allen.

What the Governor of Maryland said to the Governor of Massachusetts will remain a mystery. Violating precedent, Governor Allen received the Maryland executive behind closed doors.

When their meeting was over they posed for photographs together, and from members of Governor Ritchie's party it was learned that the two governors had "compared their respective duties."

Before his call at the State House, Governor Ritchie gave newspapermen some of the tenor of the speech he will deliver tonight.

SURPRISED AT POLICE

"On my arrival in Boston I was rather surprised at the reception I received from the police," he said.

"I never before have gone anywhere where there were so many policemen on hand to greet me. I had no suspicion I was regarded in Boston as either so important or so dangerous.

"When I heard about the attitude of some vs. Boston, I didn't know whether to be amused or flattered. I saw Henry Mencken before I came up. I asked him if he'd like to come with me.

"He replied, 'No, I've been—if I want it understood that I am not here to tell the people of Massachusetts how they should handle the prohibition situation in their state. I was asked to come here and tell about prohibition in Maryland without a Ruby Volstead act, and our experiences there.

"It has always been my contention that separate states should decide the liquor question and those states preferring to be dry should receive all the protection necessary to prevent violation of the liquor laws.

"PROHIBITION IS MISTAKE."

"I personally believe prohibition is a mistake, that some plan should be worked out in some manner to create temperance throughout the nation."

"Do you believe prohibition in the United States has been a success or a failure," he was asked.

"I do not believe it has been a success," was his answer. "Since liquor was prohibited new crimes have sprung up—hijacking, racketeering -- there seem to be more murders, there seems to have been a general corruption in many police organizations, and I think much of this corruption is due to prohibition."

He said he heard three weeks ago of the opposition to his visit when he was informed Tremont Temple had been denied him. "Tremont Temple was just another hall to me," he commented.

EXPECTS NO TROUBLE

"I do not expect to be embarrassed in Boston tonight, inasmuch as I am not there to tell the people of Massachusetts what they should do—simply how the situation is handled in Maryland."

He declined to make a comparison of conditions under prohibition in Maryland and Massachusetts.

Inspectors John McCarthy and John Dewey, who will serve with him during his Boston visit, said two members of the state executive library, who will escort him to official car, were also at the station.

He was affable and smiling with no outward indication that what was being said behind closed doors as a woods passage at a town party.

Governor Ritchie retired for about an hour after breakfast at the hotel and Boston had its first real opportunity to see him when, at 10:45, he left the Statler for the State House, riding by way of Arlington and Beacon sts.

At City Hall, shortly before noon, he was greeted by Mayor Nichols in the Executive chambers.

They chatted for a few minutes and Governor Ritchie signed the official guest book "With appreciation of your very hospitable welcome."

The party posed for the "tailing" in front of City Hall while more than 300 persons who had gathered gave the visitor a cheer.

He then returned to the Statler for luncheon.

At 4:45 he will go to the home of Mrs. William Lowell Putnam at 30 Beacon st. for tea. At 5:30 he will return to the Statler and dress for dinner at the home of Charles S. Bowkenann, 148 Marlborough st. He will be escorted to the Bowkenann home and from there to Symphony Hall by about 25 troopers of Troop A, 10th Cavalry, Capt. Robert B. Blair, commanding.

EXPECT THRONG

In anticipation of an overflow audience at Symphony Hall tonight, when Governor Ritchie will tell Boston how his state has gone along without a state prohibition enforcement act, sponsors of the meeting have arranged for amplifiers to carry the Maryland chief executive's address to the crowd which is expected in the street.

It was impossible to arrange for any sizable radio hookup and the Liberty Civic League officers decided last night to connect them with the amplifier service.

The applications for tickets has been so great, however, that the league officers believe Governor Ritchie will be greeted by the largest crowd that ever packed its way into Symphony Hall.

The arrangements for the meeting, as concluded last night, call for the opening of the doors at 7 o'clock, at which time part of the first balcony and all of the second balcony will be thrown open to the public without tickets.

Reserved seat ticket holders are requested to enter Symphony Hall by the Massachusetts ave. entrance. Those with tickets for the stage will enter by the stage door.

All ticket holders are expected to be in their seats by 7:45 and any seats not taken at that time will be thrown open to the general public.

Battle Storm at Sea With No Food for Week

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Eleven Newfoundland fishermen, captain mate and crew of the schooner Gander Deal, arrived in New York today aboard the United States liner Republic, which picked them up before daylight Friday, after they had been blown 540 miles out to sea.

With nine other ships, comprising the entire fleet of the tiny fishing village of New Town, on Bona Vista Bay, 100 miles north of St. John's, the Gander Deal set sail for home from St. John's a week ago last Friday night.

On board those ships, several of them smaller than the 65-ton Gander Deal, were practically all of the able-bodied men of New Town.

VILLAGE SUPPLIES GONE

Their cargo was the village supplies for the winter—coal and oil, meat, tea, coffee, cloth, trinkets for the women, Christmas toys fo the children. That cargo represented the earnings of an entire summer's fishing off the coast of Labrador.

"Another night and we'd have gone down with her, I guess," Manuel Barbour, her wiry little master, said today.

Still farther out another crew, five men from the Northern Light, were rescued by the liner Baltic. They will arrive in New York tonight.

Hardy fellows, their clothing stiff from dried salt spray, the crew of the Gander Deal were inarticulate and matter-of-fact as they recited their tale today.

"They'll be glad to see you, after all this, your wives and children," some one said to Lewis Berry, the mate. He shook his head doubtfully.

EVERYTHING LOST

"We lost everything," he grimly replied. "The food and the coal. It's all gone. We got nothing to take to them."

A short distance north of St. Johns, the storm came up, and from that time on, her master said today, the schooner was practically helpless being blown out to sea with mountainous waves breaking over her stern.

"That morning I was almost washed overboard a couple of times," he said. "Then we had to lash the man on watch to the wheel.

"All our cargo that wasn't in the holds was washed away. A motor boat we had on deck was broken up by the waves and washed overboard.

"A man couldn't stand it out there at the wheel more than an hour at a time. The rest of us would lie in our bunks, but we were all soaked for the water washed down inside."

ONLY RUM FOR FOOD

For food, he said, they got along with a cask of rum.

Salt water had washed into the cook's galley and ruined all the food. Even the fresh water casks could not stand the pounding and rolling. They sprung holes and salt water got inside.

The mate got sick, and that left 10 men, including the captain, to take their turns at the wheel.

"Tuesday our rudder went," the captain said. "After that we tried to hold her with a rope, but we couldn't do much. All we could do was keep riding along, running ahead of the wind."

Three times ships passed them without seeing them, said the captain of the crew. The first was in daylight, Saturday morning. There was another Sunday night and another at night, the captain could not remember just what night.

"We could just dimly see their lights," he said, "and we lit flares. But they were too far away. They couldn't see us.

"We'd have been glad to be taken off any time," he added with a sigh.

VOLUNTEERS TO THE RESCUE

At 4:30 last Friday morning the man on watch sighted the lights of the liner Republic. Flares were lighted, and the watch on the Republic saw the fires. The liner hove to, it was blowing a gale, and the sea was heavy. It was dark.

Chief Officer H. L. Winsdor, of Canton, Mass., called for volunteers to man a life boat. Among those who stepped forward was Fonce Kellem of Braddock, Pa., a seaman who was with Capt. Harry Manning of the Ameroa in the lifeboat that rescued the crew of the tramp steamer Florida last winter.

It took half an hour after the liner had hove to and the boat was launched before the rescue was completed. Shortly after 6 o'clock the last exhausted member of the Gander Deal's crew was hauled aboard the Republic and turned over to the doctor. True to the traditions of the sea, Capt. Barbour was the last to jump from the rolling wreck into the lifeboat.

One member of the schooner's crew, 15-year-old Herbert Berry, son of the mate, was so weak from exposure and exhaustion that he was kept in the hospital until yesterday.

NO TOYS FOR BABIES

Capt. Barbour and two of his brothers, who remained in New Town, owned the Gander Deal, which was built six years ago and named after a forest reservation which had recently been opened up by the Canadian government and which was known as "The Gander Deal." Her cargo on this trip, the captain said, was worth between $6000 and $7000.

Six of the men are married. Captain Barbour himself has a four-year-old son, named Ernest, and a baby girl, named Martha Verna.

"I had some things for them," he said. "A doll and some things."

One of the crew, Dan Norris, had planned to be married on his return to New Town.

"But I guess it won't now," he said with a long face.

On their arrival here, the men were turned over to the British consul, who will see that they get back to their homes. "If we get a ship right away," said Captain Barbour, "we might make it before Christmas."

Captain Barbour, who has been going to sea in fishing schooners since he was 12 years old, had never been on a ship as big as the Republic before.

Punch in Defense of Dog Costs $25 Fine

By Associated Press.

It cost Joseph E. Harding $25 today to fight his dog's battle. He paid that amount in district court for assaulting Glover B. Preble.

Preble, who reads for the gas company, was leaving the Harding manage when Harding's fighting dog, Nanook, apparently having little sympathy for the gas company, fixed his gleaming teeth in the calf of the meter reader's leg.

It was here that Mr. Harding appeared before one of four Cambridge justices. She was busily packing clothing in Preble's face, Mr. Harding declared in his complaint.

"Did you hit my dog?" he demanded.

"Yes, answered Preble, possibly a trifle belligerently.

The eye in turn was painted with iodine by the humane Mrs. Harding.

When Nanook was revived he was removed to a local hospital to have what is commonly known as a bad scalp wound dressed, and for observation as to hydrophobia.

When Mr. Preble entered he reported the matter to the police and Judge O'Brien said: Twenty-five dollars."

DUMP PROTEST GAINS FAVOR

Citizens of Webster ave., Chelsea, are gaining strength in their organized protest against the proposal to fill in a clay pit off that thoroughfare with ashes. They have tarried to keep the dump out of the city and insure against depreciation of property in the district.

The clay pit in question owned by the Batty Brick Co. is large in area than Boston Common, and fronts along Webster ave. for some considerable distance. F. J. McHugh & Son, East Boston contractors, were said to have obtained permission to fill the pit level with ashes. This was denied, however, by a member of the Mcnaugh firm.

A petition against the filling has been circulated by Rep. Frank D. Coakley of Chelsea and bears scores of signatures. Among those who voiced their protests today were Mrs. Fred Colaldo of 118 Webster ave., Mrs. Bridget McCormick, who owns a two-family dwelling at 102 Webster ave., and P. J. Daly of 100 Webster ave.

Bread Supplants Hay, Oats for Horses

East Hampton, Conn., Dec. 10—Ellery M. Flood a liverman for 15 years, has discovered that oats, hay and grain are not the right food for his horses. This menu has worked wonders with the horses, the horse trader says. They look better, behave better, and work better.

Eye Witnesses Tell of Studio Escapes

New York, Dec. 10 (INS)—Eye witnesses to the Manhattan film fire today vividly described how, in a twinkling, the studio was transformed into a blazing furnace. They told of the cry of "fire!"; then the panic and of men and women leaping from windows.

One of the eye witnesses was John C. Flinn, vice-president of the Pathe Company.

"I was seated in my office on the second floor with my secretary, Frances Walsh, when a loud cry of fire rang through the building," said Flinn.

"I looked through the door of the office, which is located on a sort of balcony, and saw the back drop in flames and actors, actresses, carpenters, scene shifters, cameramen and musicians, rushing madly toward the exit. The place was filling rapidly with smoke.

"As I was about to close the door, Leonard Meloni, the building superintendent, rushed in."

Meloni took up the story.

"I got into Flinn's office.

"The door was blocked. In fact, it was already burning.

"We broke the windows and lowered ourselves out on the ledge. As we went flames were leking through the other side of the office.

"We hung by our fingers from the ledge for dear life. Did you ever try a stunt like that?"

Meloni displayed his hands. The fingers were cut and burned. His face was black and his hair and eyebrows singed.

"It seemed like hours we hung there. Flames were billowing out of the windows. They got my hair, you see. I was ready to let go and take my chances when I felt a ladder beneath me and somebody's arm on my back.

"I let go and guess I went unconscious.

"The others I learned later, were taken down ladders also."

Frank Flinn, a member of the "Black and White Serenaders," was filing down a spiral staircase in advance of the other musicians when the flash came.

"Suddenly," he said, "the dark velvet backdrop of the stage shot up in flames. It must have all happened in a second.

"We rushed frantically back up to the second floor and made our way to windows, from which we were taken down ladders."

Flinn stated that there was no explosion, only that huge fatal puff of fire. Several of the studio crew bravely tried to fight it. Some grabbed buckets, others ran for the hose-lines. But the fire ran through the building like tinder.

Two who tried to get hoses into play were Ernest Flessler and Charles Korbell, electricians.

"I was on the balcony with my spotlight focused on the cabaret scene which was about to go on," said Flessler.

"I heard a cry of fire and saw a red glow on the scenery over where the paint frames hung.

"Take it easy!' somebody shouted.

"I left my light. There was no one on the scene yet. If it had happened five minutes later, all would have been saved."

Korbel then broke in. "I ran for the fire hose and Flessler turned on the valve. But the crowd rushed me then and carried me along in the stampede. I tumbled to the bottom of the stairs. I weigh 200 pounds, but I was thrown to my hands and knees.

"I found Richard Spradling, the chief electrician, down stairs. His face and hands were badly burned. I pulled him out to the street and he was taken to the hospital.

"I looked up, when outside, and saw a girl standing in the window, looking desperately in front of her, while flames and smoke leaped behind. It was Miss Walsh, Mr. Flinn's secretary.

"The firemen saw her at the same time and raised a ladder and brought her down.

Even more vivid was the account of Karl Eldstarde, musical director. "John Foster and I viewed one of the pictures in the projection room," he related. "We started out of the room laughing. We thought the picture was pretty good.

BUILDING A FURNACE

"But when we opened the door a fiery gust of fire and smoke shot in. I smelled it and we ran for the fire escape door.

"We looked out from the second floor but huge puffs of flame were coming from the windows below. It was very hot where we were. We couldn't jump.

"I saw a beam running slantingly from the building toward a fence in the rear. I made a 10-foot leap and caught the beam.

"Hand over hand, I worked my way to the fence and jumped off on a lumber pile.

"I tried to get up, but to my surprise my left leg buckled under me. It was broken.

"As I lay there, screams came from the building. I looked up and never in my life have I seen such a sight.

"Faces, sometimes one, sometimes three or four, showed at each window. Flames were weaving about all behind them. They were screaming, praying, crying. Some of them jumped to almost certain death.

"Two men jumped into the yard then and carried me out.

"I'll never forget what that building looked like then. It was one ball of fire. You could hardly distinguish windows, roofing or any other feature. It looked like a tremendous mountain of fire."

TROOPS GUARD RIVAL MINERS IN STRIKE

Taylorville, Ill., Dec 10 (AP)—Today's dawn found strike-troubled Taylorville under protection of the military. National guardsmen were quartered on one side of the courthouse in the middle of the square, and mine workers were congregated on the other.

At Kincaid, several miles away, cavalry and infantry were encamped to prevent conflict at Peabody mine No. 7 between rival union miners.

Two score automobiles loaded with members of the National Miners' Union swept out of town toward Kincaid two hours before the time set for the mine to open—7 a. m.

WOMEN PROTECTED.

Women and children of miners employed at No. 7 were told to gather at mine No. 58, which is in Taylorville. This was taken as a precautionary measure in case trouble should develop between the striking members of the N. M. U. and members of the United Mine Workers of America.

An infantry company, a troop of cavalry, a headquarters unit and a service company arrived during the night in response to the request for help by county officers. Maj. O. J. McMackin of Salem was in charge.

There was no disorder in the before-dawn hours, the pickets drifting away, four and five in a car, without molestation from the military.

TOO QUIT WORK.

No official would discuss what action the national guard intended to take at No. 7 to preserve order. It was indicated no attempt would be made to interfere with picketing so long as it was properly done.

Approximately 400 miners failed to appear for work yesterday and the general sentiment early today was that additional hundreds would refrain from going today.

The National Miners Union, a group that grew out of internecine strife in the United Mine Workers, based the strike on demands for a six-hour day and five-day week; a minimum wage of $7.50 a week; and abolition of the check-off system whereby the operators subtract union dues from the miners' wages and pay them direct to union headquarters.

YOUNG FAVORS AIR AND CABLE MONOPOLY

Washington, Dec. 10—A single giant communications monopoly controlling all this country's telegraph systems, cable and international radio facilities has been proposed by Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Co. and the Radio Corporation of America.

This monopoly should be privately owned and governmentally regulated Young told the Senate interstate commerce committee.

Young testified as a witness on Chairman Couzens' bill for a new federal commission to regulate all communications and the interstate operations of the power industry.

His claims in behalf of the Radio Corporation and the proposed communications were sharply attacked, and there were many clashes between committee members. He was called back for an other hearing today.

Speaking from a prepared statement, Young urged that Congress remove the statutory bar to a monopoly on communications, and permit the monopoly to be rounded out by inclusion of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

This would be effected by a merger of Western Union with the $400,000,000 International Telephone and Telegraph Company, which already has "tentatively" agreed to take over the communication business of the Radio Corporation.

He proposed to omit only the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. Unification of the telephone services with the telegraph services he disapproved "under the present development."

WALSH FIGHTS TARIFF RISE ON WOOL RAGS

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, said in the Senate today that the proposed levy of 24 cents a pound, a increase of 16½ cents on wool rags, would take away from the great middle classes the right to buy cheap imported clothing and blankets and force them to buy "inferior" goods made from domestic wares.

Walsh exhibited imported blankets, suits and overcoats made from wool rags which he said brought higher prices than the same articles produced in this country and argued their prohibition would not force the poor people to buy American goods made of virgin wool as has been contended by some proponents of the higher duties.

He also said the foreign rags were far superior to the domestic because they consisted mostly of pure wool while the American rag consisted of discarded clothing which was mixed with large quantities of cotton.

Wool rags importer, he said, averaged about 24 cents a pound in price while the domestic rags brought only 8 cents. Therefore, he contended, no competition existed, as the articles were not comparable.

Senator Norris, Republican Independent of Nebraska, demanded that the lobby investigating committee call for questioning more than a hundred editors and publishers of rural newspapers in Minnesota, to determine who paid for a page advertisement appearing in papers today, urging Congress to pass the tariff bill, without slashing existing industrial rates.

The advertisement appeared simultaneously with an appeal addressed to Congress by the Minnesota editors urging the Senate, particularly, to pass the tariff measure with its "splendid new farm rate schedule," and not to hold it up indefinitely with attempts to cut industrial rates below the present law.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

B. & M. to Run Express to Saugus Spectacle

Henry A. B. Peckham of Saugus Center, whose illumination of grounds attracted 250,000 persons last Christmas week, says he is planning for a bigger and better lighting effect on his estate this year.

Twenty-five thousand electric lights will twinkle in this display. As in former years, the public is invited to attend the display this season.

Would Motorize Last Line

A petition for permission to motorize its last trolley line—the Burndale-Lake st. line—has been presented to the Newton Board of Aldermen by the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company.

To accommodate the large number of persons who will go to Saugus Centre to view the fairyland spectacle, the Boston & Maine Railroad will run express train service from North Station, December 19 and 20, and return half an hour later. This is the first time the town will have had express train service to and from Boston. If traffic warrants the lone express will be operated until January 1.

On Dec. 20 10,000 members of the American Legion will visit Saugus to witness the display on invitation of Saugus Post of the organization. One thousand members of the Lion clubs of New England have signified their intention of doing likewise on the 18th.

POWER LOBBY PAYMENTS CONCEALED

Washington, Dec. 10—Lobbying costs, which were a part of the power trust outlay to acquire and exploit the choice hydro-electric power sites of the country, were at once concealed and doubled by charging them to an unregulated construction company, it was disclosed today.

This concern, known as the Dixie Construction Co., was created, staffed and owned by the Alabama Power Co., it is shown in records of the Alabama public service commission.

The commission's records, which Universal Service has examined at Birmingham and Montgomery, detail the results of a three year investigation, still going on, of the Alabama company's attempt to charge up many challenged expenditures to consumers and taxpayers, as part of the "cost" of hydro-electric plants.

The $27,000 payments for lobbying made to C. A. Beasley, and most of the payments making up the $33,186 total paid to Josiah T. Newcomb, present power lobby head, were made through the Dixie Construction Company.

One result was to keep these payments secret—until auditors of the Alabama commission and the Federal Power Commission got into Dixie's books several years later.

CHARGED TO TAXPAYERS

Another was to charge up to rate payers and tax payers not only the amount of the actual payments, but an added fee of three per cent of this amount. The Dixie company, in billing the Alabama company, superimposed this fee on everything entering into the claimed cost of the construction work done by the Dixie company.

O. G. Thurlow, who was another vice-president of the Dixie Company and its ranking executive officer, was at the same time chief engineer of the power company. In the latter capacity he designed Mitchell Dam, a hydro-electric project on the Coosa river. Nearly half the claimed "cost" of this dam has been either rejected or held in abeyance by the federal commission's accounting division.

After designing the dam Thurlow, as Dixie's vice-president, drafted a bid for the job of building it. As the power company's chief engineer he helped pass on this bid before the power company accepted it.

PASSED ON BID

Thurlow then directed the building of the dam as Dixie's vice-president, the records show, while "instructing" and "supervising" as the power company's chief engineer. At the head of the force of inspectors representing the Alabama company—but paid by the Dixie Company—he looked upon his own handiwork and pronounced it good.

Much of the power company's overhead expense was charged to the Dixie Company, after which the power company was billed these charges with the three per cent fee added. Thurlow, in one capacity or another, determined what proportions of the expense should be so charged and billed.

As recently as October, 1928, the power company was still insisting that the Dixie Company was an "independent organization." Lamar Aldridge, the power company treasurer, when asked who the Dixie stockholders were, replied:

"I am not prepared to say."

INDEPENDENT, HE SAYS

President Hugh White of the Alabama commission interposed that "if the Alabama Power Company did the work for itself it might be a question whether it would be authorized, under the law, to pay itself a fee of three per cent for doing the work for itself."

Aldridge contended the fee was proper, adding:

"It (Dixie) was an independent organization."

White asked if it was "reasonable" for the power company to buy machinery for Mitchell dam, pay for it, bill the charge to Dixie as part of the construction job and have Dixie bill it back to the power company with a three per cent fee added.

Aldridge said it was.

Chinese Rebels Move Against Canton

Canton, Dec. 10 (AP)—Chang Fak Wei's revolting "Ironsides" division knocked at the gates of Canton today after a precipitate overnight advance which brought them near the city. Artillery fire was plainly audible.

The rebels apparently have broken the government lines on a wide front. Rumors were circulated that the fall of Canton was imminent. The utmost uneasiness resulted in native circles.

It was said here the breach in the Loyalists' lines had been made in the Tsingyun district 50 miles north of Canton where land troops were expected and by stampeding a herd of water buffalo against the Nationalists. The rebels followed behind the cattle.

It was understood the Nationalists planned to exert the utmost efforts to hold Canton against the invaders, however if the rebels come in the garrison was expected to retreat to the east as pontoon bridge is being constructed across the East river to facilitate possible retreat.

Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist leader, telegraphed Kwangsung military headquarters here ordering two divisions of troops sent to Nanking and stating "forces badly needed."

SHOPPING TOUR BRINGS 3 FINES

A supposedly "dry goods" shopping trip to Boston that turned out to be a "wet goods" party, cost William M. Thomas of Greenland, N. H., a total of $340 in liquor fines today in the Malden district court.

Thomas told Judge Davis he had obligingly taken his Portsmouth landlady and one of her boarders to Boston to help her do some shopping. They were on their way when Thomas violated a Malden traffic regulation, which led to his subsequent arrest for drunkenness, arriving while drunk and [illegible] denial.

Thomas explained that the liquor seized in a suitcase "must have been" the property of his landlady, as he supposed the suitcase contained dry goods.

The man accompanying Thomas was fined $10 for drunkenness, but the landlady was entirely sober and allowed to go free. She told police the "wet goods" were not her supposedly "dry goods."

Meanwhile Thomas has been locked up until he arranged to pay the three fines.

A&P IS THE WORLD'S LARGEST RETAILER OF COFFEE

Now...

Coffee Prices Lowest in Years!

THE coffee market has dropped to its lowest point in five years . . . and prices of coffee in A&P Food Stores have been reduced accordingly. In passing this saving on to its customers, A&P follows its usual policy of immediately lowering food costs whenever the market permits. These sharply reduced coffee prices are not sale prices . . . they are A&P's new, low, regular prices.

A&P guarantees its coffee to be the finest grades grown in the world's greatest coffee producing countries . . . Colombia and Brazil. And no other food stores, anywhere, exercise such complete control of the quality of the coffee they sell as A&P does. For A&P has its own purchasing offices in South America and its own buyers select the cream of the crop.

A&P guarantees its coffee to be "fresh-roasted" because it also controls its sale at retail. A&P Food Stores get frequent deliveries in small quantities from nearby roasting plants. This, together with the fact that A&P is the world's largest retailer of coffee, means that coffee moves so rapidly from A&P Food Stores that it doesn't have a chance to lose its oven-freshness.

GRUNDY FLAYED IN SENATORIAL LOBBY REPORT

Washington, Dec. 10—Joseph R. Grundy, "granddaddy of all lobbyists," sought to add at least $1,155,900.00 and possibly "double that amount" to the cost of living in the United States through his advocacy of higher tariff duties, the Senate lobby investigating committee reported today.

Grundy is being considered for appointment to the Senate seat from which William S. Vare was barred.

The committee declared his "chief contribution to political life has consisted of raising funds for political campaigns."

The report cited Grundy's testimony at the inquiry and said that Grundy was forced to retract because "figures from the Treasury" refuted his charge that the "backward states did not pay enough taxes to cover the cost of collection."

CAMPAIGN FUND RAISED

The report says the "inference is irresistible" that the service rendered by Grundy in raising Republican campaign funds led to the belief by him and those associated with him that he would be able to influence the action of "his party associates in Congress" and that "he has grown rich in the pursuit of a highly protected industry."

Though this is not to be attributed wholly to him, the report added, those who contributed, as in his instance, to the campaign, could give some idea of the value of his services in connection with the tariff from the fact that in 65 of the leading industries of Pennsylvania, the pending tariff bill recommended raises in 42.

$750,000 for G. O. P.

The report said Grundy, as a member of the ways and means committee of the Republican National committee for Pennsylvania, raised nearly $702,000 in the last campaign and that a large part of this sum was contributed by manufacturers interested in tariff rates.

"Having, as he claims, been instrumental in the adoption of the tariff plank in the Kansas City platform and having raised the huge sum mentioned to elect the Republican candidate for President and Republican Congressmen," the report continued, "Grundy felt an obligation to come to Washington to see that the promises of the platform in respect to the tariff were kept and that the individuals who, through his solicitation contributed to the campaign fund were made whole."

"THE THIRTEENTH CHAIR" STAGE STAR ECLIPSES SUCCESS ON SCREEN

MARGARET WYCHERLY SHINES

The Cast

Richard Crosby.....Conrad Nagel
Helen O'Neill.....Leila Hyams
Madame Rosalie La Grange.....Margaret Wycherly
Mary Eastwood.....Helene Millard
Sir Roscoe Crosby.....Holmes Herbert
Lady Crosby.....Mary Forbes
Inspector Delzante.....Bela Lugosi
Edward Wales.....John Davidson

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

MARGARET WYCHERLY is a "wow" in the movies. This star of the stage is equally a star of talkiedom, and now they ought to put up her name in brilliant and shining lights, so brilliant is her performance in "The Thirteenth Chair," now at Loew's State. She carries memory back 12 years to the sight of her in the same role in the flesh; and her film work seems about as sterling as her footlight achievement. Which is saying a whole lot.

IT was a wise move on the M-G-M lot when they cast their eyes hungrily toward Miss Wycherly after deciding to turn this old drama into a talking picture. The result is another photoplay triumph which takes rank with the best in similar offerings. It was not meant in the old days; it is still first rate. Naturally, like all great of plays done into talkies it fails in the quality of motion; but its general excellence otherwise makes it serve appetizingly in these days when the common run of screen product is just so-so. This is Miss Wycherly's bow in the films; and it is to be hoped that the barons of the studios will anchor her with a contract for further labors. Actresses of her class are unfortunately, few and far between in Hollywood, as yet.

Margaret Wycherly

AS many will recall, the story concerns a murder, done in Calcutta. The action is centered in one home, and almost wholly within one room. This leaves little opportunity for the camera's eye to go ranging afield; but the direction is superb, and there are stellar angle "shots," and clever photographic effects, all calculated to make this a thriller. Miss Wycherly is Rosalie La Grange, one of her famous chap roles, a part she created, and her acting is flawless. How grandly her voice is picked up by the "mike." The ordinary movie stars fade when compared to her. Unobtrusively, she moves and speaks, and yet she absorbs the whole screen as long as her image is thereon.

MR. NAGEL and Miss Hyams prop up the love theme, and Miss Hyams is sweet indeed, and fair, too, in the acting. Mr. Nagel contributes little. Holmes Herbert, John Davidson and Bela Lugosi deliver magnificent characterizations; Mr. Lugosi is a Hungarian, to be remembered for his work in "Dracula."

THAT luminary of "Broadway Melody" note, Charles King, appears in person on the State. He is enthusiastically greeted, proving that his singing ability, demonstrated in the various screen offerings, including the "Hollywood Revue," has won him a real place in the hearts of the fans. He proves a most engaging personality, and may be counted on to "pack 'em in" at Manager Joe Brennan's playhouse this week. Also on stage are the dancers, Elsie Pilcer and Boots McKenna Mr. Rodgers plays request numbers at the con sole, and the Stategrams hold forth. The screen comedy, featuring those laughter-getters, Laurel and Hardy, can be recommended for chasing away all blues, as it also eases up the tension existing after the seeing of "The Thirteenth Chair."

"You're a Wise Bird"

BELLE BAKER

THE SONG QUEEN, featured in person on the Metropolitan stage, is telling a thing or two to this huge rooster, who thinks he's cock of the walk. Belle admits he might be a wise bird, but is telling him he has nothing on her.

EVELYN BRENT DIDN'T HAVE TO WAIT FOR NEW CONTRACT

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10—You can depend upon Barry Cohn not to let the grass grow under his feet. Evelyn Brent finished at Paramount a day or two ago. It was rumored in the papers a full week without even stopping to put on his hat Harry jumped into the Rolls Royce and went after Miss Brent. He signed her on the dotted line before she had time to even think affiliation. But she is happy, Harry is happy, and so will the fans be if he carries out his determination to get her good plays.

Louella O. Parsons

That determination will take Mr. Cohn to New York almost immediately where he purposes buying some special plays for Miss Brent. Columbia, you will admit, is doing worthwhile things. "Submarine" and "Flight" were two of the really good pictures this year and Mr. Cohn has big plans for Miss Brent.

IN case you're interested, Leo McCarey, Pathe director, is not one of those who has departed from that studio with the avalanche. He is only being loaned to Paramount to direct "Let's Go Native" and he returns to direct Eddie Quillan in an original by McCary called "Red Pepper. Until then he will direct James Hall in "Let's Go Native" and young Hall, we would say, is just as busy as his director. As soon as he completes "Let's Go Native" he moves to R. K. O. to play opposite Betty Compson.

Betty has just signed a three years' contract with R. K. O. So everybody's got a job.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN, 2nd, who has become famous as a song writer, has arrived in Hollywood. As I said in this column a few months ago Mr. Hammerstein will go directly to Warner Brothers, where he will begin writing and producing Warner Brothers' operas. Sigmund Romberg, who has collaborated with Hammerstein, will be with Hammerstein at the Warner studios. Naturally this is quite a scoop for our town for they represent the biggest and better things in light operas and musical comedies.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Mildred Harris pensively staring into the Hollywood shop windows. Carmelita Geraghty and Julanne Johnstone in a huddle over their Christmas lists. De Wolfe Hopper and his present wife, attending the Hollywood prize fights. Eddie Brandstatter rejoicing that Gus Arnheim's band is coming there to play at the Embassy Club. Eddie Mannix, Robert Leonard, Robert Agnew, Harry Richman and $5 per cent of the film folk at the same hour, Robert Armstrong acting as second and getting a hand. Count De Sigmund, spats, carnation and monocle, having a midnight snack at Henry's. Thelma Todd and Harry Pryder also at Henry's. Hollywood receiving its invitations to the Embassy Club's dance party. George Bellsmith lunching with one of Hollywood's beautiful women. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Opposite Mackaill

Basil Rathbone plays opposite Dorothy Mackaill in "Green Stockings," being produced by First National from the play of A. E. W. Mason. William A. Seiter is directing.

QUEEN O' SONG CAN'T SEE FAILURE

RECKLESS BELLE BAKER, whose very entrance on the Metropolitan stage is the signal for general relaxation and good humor, delights in poking fun at herself.

Belle Baker can afford to laugh at herself now. "It costs me nothing," she says, "since I am on the top rung of fame's ladder."

"But the Jew is never a failure until he admits it himself. I can't speak that language. Miss Baker grinned with her infectious spirit.

Miss Baker is appearing personally at the Metropolitan, and her jibes and jokes have a personal touch like a dig in the ribs when she answers a question with a characteristic slam at herself. If she ever knew the depths of despair her whole-hearted humor has erased all trace of it now.

Her life story is like a page from a romance. Born and reared on the East Side of New York, she has risen by sheer hard work from its sweatshops, music halls and Yiddish speaking theaters to stardom on Broadway and to the place in the cinema world where she can make two pictures a year and rest on her laurels.

Necessity drove her as a child into the sweatshops, where she earned $2 a week pulling bastings and pressing garments, but her talent for singing got her fired from her first job.

"I was entertaining the other girls with my singing one day when the boss walked in unexpectedly," Miss Baker related. "He fired me on the spot for wasting time. My next job was the beginning of my stage career for I obtained an engagement to sing in a music hall for $3 a week."

Jacob P. Adler, the noted Jewish actor, took an interest in the girl and gave her invaluable dramatic training that has contributed to her phenomenal success in spite of many discouragements and obstacles.

Nine years ago Miss Baker met Maury Abrahams, the song writer. "We all hard boiled each other," she said. Their son, Herbert is the light of his mother's life and she cannot tell ten minutes without mentioning pridefully some incident connected with her "wonder boy."

Scollay Square Presents Classy Vaudeville Bill

Manny King and Company headline an unusually fine vaudeville program on the Scollay Square this week. The big flash act of the bill, however, is the Alcova Revue, which shows a classy, well-schooled and lavishly costumed group of dancing and singing girls. The Alcova act is billed as "The Spirit of the Living Nude," the name appropriate.

The Tom and Louise Trio in acrobatic and waltzing dancing show a very fast act. These are local performers selected from the Charlie Frank's "Whoopee shows" as having unusual talent and they were given a week's engagement. Other acts are: The Texas Four, a comedy quartette in singing, talking and steps; and Burt Walton who does an exceptionally effective single.

The Helen Kane Boop Boop-a-Doop contests are stirring much interest among local aspirants for honors. Miss Kane sings the closing line in "He's So Unusual" and other songs of "Sweetie" the Weeks' screen feature in which Jack Oakie and Nancy Carroll also also seen and heard in leading parts.

All the acts with several new numbers will be seen in the Whoopee Show" Thursday evening which Charlie Frank hopes to a regular Scollay Sq. feature.

Madge Kennedy Tops Program at Keith-Albee

At the Keith-Albee this week Madge Kennedy, star of "Nearly Married," Paul Gerard Smith and dozens of other stage successes, is appearing in person in "Spring Fancies," the fine musical comedy by Elaine Carrington entitled The Red Hat." It is a smart sophisticated play with which Miss Kennedy is excellent advantage to the talents of this charming young woman. She is supported by Edwara Stanley, Maxine Flood and Frank Taylor.

In addition to Madge Kennedy as the vaudeville headliner, the program includes Elizabeth Brice in "A Bit of Musical Comedy Done in a Vaudeville Way," in which she is assisted by Arthur Greene at the piano, and Samuel Baron. Other acts are Burns and Allen, just back from London triumphs in "Lamb Chops"; Red Donahue and Pal in "Kicks and Kicks," and the Frabelle Frolics.

FILM BOY GIFT FROM SANTA

"THERE'S a boy in "Song of Love," now being screened at the Keith-Albee, who traveled 2000 miles to get a chance for his bow in filmland. He is Herbert Joseph Abrahams, son of the famous Belle Baker, star of the picture in private life she is Mrs. Maurice Abrahams, wife of the music publisher of that name. By one of those coincidences of life, Herbert was born on his mother's birthday. They both saw the light of day on Christmas day, and on this coming December 25 the youngster will be nine. At Hollywood, Herbert had a jolly time until he got into the studios then he had to work. But the example of little David Durand, who appears in the picture also, was a good one to follow, and in time the two lads became chums.

Herbert Baker

Herbert says he isn't worrying a bit about the possibility that his friends will present him with two more gifts like Christmas. If he should get one gift where most boys get two, one for Yuletide, and one for birthday, he doesn't care; he gets his kick just the same, he says, especially out of football, his favorite sport.

Gridiron Stars Accept Invitation to Theater

Coach Charles Caldwell, famous football mentor of Dartmouth, strongly advocated the idea that the great gridiron stars should prove to be a source of enjoyment to the players. Manager Al Fowler of the Public Forway being of the same mind has put the idea into practice by inviting the members of the football squads of Harvard, Boston College, Tufts and Boston University to enjoy as special guests of the theater Jack Oakie and Nancy Carroll also also seen and heard in leading parts.

All the acts with several new numbers will be seen in the Whoopee Show" Thursday evening which Charlie Frank hopes to a regular Scollay Sq. feature.

George White Selects Hub for Show Premiere

For the second time this season George White has selected Boston for the premiere of another of his theatrical offerings. Late next month, or early in February, Mr. White plans to present in Boston for the first time on any stage, his new musical comedy production, the book for which is now being compiled by B. G. De Sylva, Lew Brown, Jack McGowan and George White.

GOSSIP ALONG NEW YORK'S RIALTO

New York, Dec. 10.

DON MARKUS, the fellow who gave us "The Old Soak" a few seasons back, has just finished another play, it is pleasing to report. The new work a comedy bears the title of (it) playing the courage of his, the roster of the New York Theater Assembly for January production.

This is the organization, holding forth at the old Princess Theater which offers modified Shakespeare. "Measure for Measure" under the name of "The Novice and the Duke."

Mark Linder, but lately out of the hospital where the surgeons extracted an appendix and "Cortez" from his system, has displayed another evidence of versatility. This time he's become a playwright and, by way is displaying the courage of his convictions, he vows to produce the effort of his head and hand himself.

His literary gem—it's his first offense, so don't condemn him too hastily—is called "Room 349."

Incidentally, Mark wasn't really cured of "Cortez," although the appendix extraction was all that could be expected. He now is considering a revival of that short-lived drama for touring purposes with the same Lou Pellegen in his original title role.

GAYETY GOES ORIENTAL

"TEMPTERS" a new burlesque show lived up to its name at the Gayety. It is a snappy show, full of comedy and featuring some exceptional dancing by Ruby Foreman.

Miss Foreman, who won fame under the name of "Tangara" does some Oriental dances. The comedy, with which the performance is packed, is handled for the most part by Art Mayer and Tommy Miller. The work of Midge Brandon is another feature, for she steps into the comedy scenes with everybody's approval.

Harry Howe, character man and Jimmy Allatin, juvenile, offer some diversion, while the work of the chorus, both as a unit and as individuals keeps the entertainment at high speed.

HOWARD SHOW FULL OF PEP

THERE is plenty of "Whoopee" on the bill at the Old Howard this week. Buster Sanborn, dazzling maid of burlesque, is appearing in Mutual's "Puss Puss" company. Buster is most attractive and her specialties are helping to make the show put the production over in speedy fashion. A wealth of merriment is supplied by Chatterbox (Tramp) McNally and his "Box Car" chatter. McNally is also seen to advantage as Howard, Boston College, Tufts and Boston University to enjoy as special guests of the theater football as it is played on the Pacific coast as exemplified in the big scenes of the all during and sound screen feature "The Forward Pass" which is playing a week's engagement at the Fenway. The squads of all four institutions have accepted the invitations for the following evenings, respectively: Tuesday, Tufts; Wednesday, Boston University; Thursday, Harvard; Friday, Boston College. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. and Loretta Young are the stars in the picture, which is a college romance.

Sharing Sharon

SHARON LYNN

PUCKER UP your lips. Doesn't this look like an invitation? Those eyes certainly spell that word. It is Sharon Lynn, who takes some of the honors in "Sunnyside Up" at the new B. F. Keith's.

COWBOY HAS AN ALPINE YODEL

Greta Garbo

Curious camera angles and impressionistic scenes aid in telling the story in novel fashion. Conrad Nagel plays the leading male role and the supporting cast includes Anders Randolf, Lew Ayres and Holmes Herbert.

"Oklahoma" Bob Albright, cowboy singer of national prominence, is the headline figure of an entertaining vaudeville bill. His yodeling and western humor also well received as are also his two talented assistants, Genevieve Herbert and Estelle Muller. Runners-up for stellar honors are the international dance stars, Sid Tracey and Bessie Harris. De Mar and Lester share in the honors in the cast of "Ship Ahoy," a nautical novelty sketch of many pleasant surprises. Guy Lauren, who plays no less than 10 musical instruments, and his equally proficient partner, Marie La Dare, offer a rare musical act, and the three Melvin brothers thrill with their acrobatic stunts.

Artkino Guild Gets Site for Theater

The Artkino Guild announced that 69 Newbury St., opposite the Massachusetts Ave. Elevated Station has been secured for the erection of the theater which is to be known as the "Screen."

The Guild's children's programs are to be in charge of a committee interested in child welfare.

HEAR 'CELLIST IN CONCERT

BEATRICE HARRISON, English 'cellist, gave a concert at Hancock Hall last night, with the Boston Chamber Orchestra, an organization of Boston Symphony players, conducted by Nicolas Slonimsky. The concert had many unusual features. Not least was the fact that an artist distinguished in her own right, giving a concert, should enlist the aid of an adequate orchestra instead of a mere piano.

It was also the first public concert in this new hall, adjacent to the John Hancock building on Stuart st. Not only is the auditorium itself beautiful, with excellent appointments, but acoustically it was everything to be desired for even an intimate chamber music concert.

The program included many rare numbers, but did not run to ultra-modernism. A Sinfonia of Karl Johann Stamitz began it. Then Miss Harrison played the Haydn Concerto in D major with the orchestra, and four short pieces, including the "Melody" of Charles G. Dawes.

Four Episodes for Chamber Orchestra, piquant in style and orchestration, and two pieces by Percy Grainger and Sommartini for solo instrument and orchestra completed the list. The music was, for the most part, of a sufficiently general appeal, and the audience was evidently pleased.

Miss Harrison played with her accustomed temperamental fervors, but without quite her usual restraint.

TAX CUT PLAN FINDS FAVOR IN CONGRESS

Washington, Dec. 10—Republicans and Democrats in Congress joined in endorsing the movement sponsored by the Hearst newspapers for a reduction in the federal tax on earned incomes.

The sentiment of more than a dozen persons individually and upward of a dozen through civic organizations that the government should grant a reduction of taxes for those who earn their living by their brains and hands as distinguished from those whose income of the unearned class was favored forty to three months ago.

The petition reached the doors of Congress after a gentlemen's agreement had been arrived at between Republican and Democratic leaders with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to support the $160,000,000 temporary tax reduction bill without alteration.

But in the next general revision of the revenue law the petition will bear fruit, according to leaders on both sides of the legislative aisle.

"We will back up the pledges of Senator Smoot and Representative Hawley to give earned income proper consideration in the revision," said a half dozen Congressmen.

FAVOR REVISION

Not a single member declared himself unsympathetic with the proposition that income from brains and brawn should be taxed lighter than income from capital. Women members of the House were as enthusiastic over the movement launched by William Randolph Hearst, through his chain of newspapers, as were the men.

Mrs. Florence Kahn, Republican congresswoman from California, said:

"I heard the appeals of leaders of the theater, bar, clergy and other leaders on the steps of the Capital Saturday for a reduction in the tax on earned income. I am in favor of that proposition to the limit.

"Some allowance is given in the present law for earned income, but it does not go far enough. The government already has accepted the principle as sound. What is needed now is to give the fullest consideration possible to earned income.

"In the next downward revision of taxes, I shall do all I can to see that the men and women who really are building our country are given prior consideration in taxation."

ENDORSES CAMPAIGN

Rep. Melvin J. Maas (R.) of Minn., said:

"The principal seems sound to me that priority should be given to earned income. Corporations are allowed to deduct for depreciation or earning power. Mining companies are allowed to deduct for depletion of their reserve ore.

"But the individual is allowed no deductions for old age. His earning power diminishes when he gets old, but the government has taken its toll from him when he is earning at his peak. This can be remedied in part by allowing a greater deduction for earned income."

Chairman Will R. Wood, Indiana, of the powerful House appropriations committee, declared himself in hearty sympathy with the proposal to give earned incomes more liberal treatment in writing the revenue laws.

"The man who earns his living with his brain or through manual labor is entitled to preference," said Wood.

Rep. William E. Hall (R.), of Illinois, also endorsed the movement, pledging himself to work for reduction in the levy on earned incomes.

College Style Dorms for Bay State Prisoners

An experiment in the handling of prisoners will be tried under the direction of Governor Allen at Norfolk, where State's prisoners will be allowed to sleep in dormitories instead of in cells as at State's Prison, he announced in an address at the union ministers' meeting in the Church of the New Jerusalem under the auspices of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches.

He made reference to the experiment while outlining his humanitarian program for prisoners. He said: "We are going to give them that chance; we are going to give the men within three deadlines an opportunity to live like human beings if they so desire to live."

WIFE DYING IN LEAP, HUSBAND IS ARRESTED

Springfield, Dec. 10—Mrs. Stella Mogitki, mother of two children, is dying and her husband is under arrest as the result of an argument over a cup of coffee.

Crying, "I cannot stand it any longer," Mrs. Mogitki leaped from a third story window of her home today after her husband is alleged to have struck her during the argument which followed his demand that she make him a cup of coffee.

She suffered fractures of both legs, a fractured skull and jaw and internal injuries. Police arrested Mogitki on a charge of assault and battery.

And a Sample Roll of Rapp-Wrap Wax Paper

Rapp-Wrap Wax Food Wrapper is such a heavy fine quality that it should not be confused with what is generally termed "Wax Paper" (the thin tissue grade). Only quality paper like Rapp-Wrap waxed paper is adapted to the many uses suggested below.

FOR wrapping all moist food products such as cheese, cold cuts of meat, lettuce, radishes, celery, cake, etc. For wrapping "smelly" foods like fish, onion or garlic flavored foods, cantaloupes, etc., to prevent contaminating other foods in the refrigerator.

Used under the cover to insure Sealing of Steamed Puddings or breads.

For rolling or kneading dough. Wrapping Roasts or Fish during baking or Cut Cabbage to prevent drying.

We recommend thoroughly WRAPPING "left over" foods before placing into refrigerator to prevent odors and to KEEP SAUCERS AND DISHES OUT OF THE FOOD CHAMBER. Merely covering food on a saucer or dish will not fully cover it as a rule.

Pour candy on a sheet of Rapp-Wrap to cool. When cool cut candy into squares and wrap in it.

For hard boiled and deviled eggs, and cold picnic lunches generally. (A roll of Rapp-Wrap should be taken to the picnic so that "left over" foods may be wrapped for the return trip.)

For use under jelly glass, horseradish, mustard and other jar lids.

For everything and anything in the food line to keep it wholesome and sanitary until used.

For use under the server's and baby's plates to keep the table cloth spotless. For wrapping silver to keep from tarnishing.

For wrapping foods left from the meal before placing into refrigerator.

Wrap thoroughly all tools and fine instruments to prevent rusting.

Cut flowers when sprinkled with water and properly wrapped with Rapp-Wrap will remain fresh for many hours.

A piece of Rapp-Wrap on the bottom of bird's cage will keep it clean.

Many other general uses will suggest themselves to you for this wonderful product.

SLAM BID SAFELY REACHED AT CONTRACT

A forcing take-out or a forcing overall of an adverse bid at Contract the bid of one trick more than necessary yet short of a game odds frequently employed in an effort to reach a Slam even though there is an immediate game assist or a no bid immediate Slam assist in the hand. The procedure of the East player in this deal is an excellent illustration of a Small Slam being safely reached through the means of such a forcing bid.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: West bid originally one Spade. With North overcalls with Six Clubs, bidding strong support for his partner's bid, assists by adding two Spades which becomes the final declaration.

Contract: As in Auction, West bids one Spade and North overcalls with Six Clubs.

East, now faced with a problem of how best to show his powerful holding, has clearly warrant an immediate assist to four Spades for game or five Spades to invite a further bid from West if he still able to assist. In preference to a Spade assist, East makes a forcing bid of five Diamonds, which is an imperative demand, and not merely an invitation for a further bid by partner. An forcing bid implies another bid in hand and East's three Passed take-out may or may not be a final of Spades. It is unfortunately, however, a deterrent for additional information from West as to holding.

South passing West bids five Diamonds passing clearly by such jump that he holds in addition to his original Spade bid strong support for Diamonds including plus four cards of suit.

East, aware that the Diamond suit is probably solid (at least nine cards between the two hands headed by the Ace King) bids for the Seven on partner's original bid of five, although having no hope of making the game but Spades.

It is agreed that had East bid only five Spades or five on the heels of his bid a Slam contract would have been refused as there is no chance for making his contract.

The outstanding adverse Diamonds being equally divided, Declarer loses the King of Spades and follows with the nine and eight. East [illegible] cording on the last two Spades the [illegible] blocking ten and [illegible] monds. In this way [illegible] be made.

Needless Suffering

The next time a headache makes you stay at home—

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—

Remember Bayer Aspirin! For there is scarcely any pain it cannot relieve, and relieve promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, or the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might so easily be checked; to neuritis, neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Bayer Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

For your own protection, buy the genuine. Say "Bayer." It's always the same. It never proves the heart, so use it as often as needed; but the cause of any pain can be treated only by a doctor.

THE ARSONIST

—a Discouraged Criminal

More and more is the arsonist becoming a discouraged criminal. So relentless is the search—so greatly improved are the methods of detecting the evil deeds of this foe to all society—that fires started either for revenge or unlawful gain, are steadily decreasing in number.

Through the Arson Department of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the Stock Fire Insurance companies work day and night to apprehend the arsonist.

The Arson Squad—composed of a large number of specially trained men—operates quietly and effectively with the police and fire departments and with fire marshals, to guard the public against incendiarism.

The pitiable but dangerous pyromaniac, with his abnormal mind, also is being curbed.

Model Arson Laws

Legislators in more than half our states have amended their laws to more effectively check the operations of criminals who endanger the lives of others in their desperate efforts to profit illegally through destruction by fire. Other states are joining the movement.

Lives and property are becoming safer as a result of ceaseless vigilance against this crime of crimes.

Even more gratifying results will follow a keener realization of the menace and cost of incendiary fires. There are many ways in which the public may cooperate in aiding the authorities to punish the guilty.

A copy of "The Crime of Crimes," an interesting booklet on arson and incendiarism, may be had upon request.

CHAPTER 32

WITH his fingers gripped to the dog's collar, the man balked and staggered forward. The flashlight picked out a gaunt, unshaven face in which the eyes burned and the hair fell disheveled over the forehead.

At sight of the detective the man's face lightened. He gave a gl[illegible] inarticulate cry and [illegible] advanced.

"Halt! Throw up your arms!" Is there anyone with you?"

At the curt order the man appeared stunned. The light vanished from his face. He looked at the pistol bewilderedly.

"No one with me," he answered in hoarse, bitter tones and raising his hands. "Who are you? Why the gun?"

At the baffled, furiously helpless words, the dog crouched menacingly. He moved with angry growls toward Tim Chase.

"Call off your dog or he'll be killed. Keep him off. I'm a detective with the San Francisco police. Do as you're told if you want to get out of this alive. Now turn your back and put your hands [illegible] One move and it's [illegible] Keep the dog down."

At the clicking of the handcuffs the prisoner's whole body became tense with rage.

"Why am I handcuffed?"

"I guess you haven't the slightest idea, have you? Now, then, what's your name?"

"My name's Elliott—Guy Elliott."

"Is this your dog?"

"Yes—it's my dog."

"All right, then, tell the dog to [illegible] Keep him near."

The eyes of the handcuffed man [illegible] They regarded his captor with grim, distracted appeal.

"Where are you taking me? Why the handcuffs? What have I done?"

"I'm taking you out of here. We'll talk later. Keep your legs under you and get going or we'll be all night at the job."

Elliott all right. Couldn't mistake him even with that stubble on his face. Tall, thin, brown [illegible] scar across the forehead [illegible] Guess the [illegible] his nerve. Had the whole thing sewed up, but couldn't put it over. Went wandering about. Exhausted now with hunger.

His heart raced. The ransom must be hidden here. God—if he could get that, too—make the case complete!

On the narrow trail to which the dog led them and above which the hills swung blackly, Chase suddenly turned and flashed the light full in his prisoner's face.

"Elliott, you want to know where you're going. Now, listen—we've got the goods on you. Got [illegible] cold. Come clean. It's your [illegible] chance. Where's the ra[illegible]?"

The man mumbled [illegible]:

"Ransom? Wh[illegible] ransom?"

"Why, the ransom your dog fetched."

"My dog? Ransom? What are you talking about?"

"Terrible surprise to you, isn't it? Never heard of a ransom before. But it's your dog, isn't it?"

The man gave a fierce, exasperated cry.

"What in God's name are you talking about? You're from San Francisco? Then you must know [illegible] been missing a week—maybe more. Surely someone's inquired for me. I don't even know where I am. I thought you must be the rescue party."

"All right, stick it out. You'll get it rough enough. You're Guy Elliott, aren't you?"

"I'm Guy Elliott!" said the man, staggering. With every few steps he lurched against Tim Chase. The dog kept running back. He sniffed at Guy's feet, gave a jump and licked his face. They went on like this for half an hour. Through the mile of darkness.

The detective thought:

If I can break him! Get him to lead me to the ransom. He's buried it somewhere. But he must see the [illegible] is up.

"Look here, Elliott. You've got one chance in a hundred to come off easy on this. Bluff and you lose it. Now come across. That's your one hope. Where'd you stow the ransom?"

"I don't know what you're driving at."

'SAD BOY' ASKS GOODFELLOWS FOR WARM CLOTHES

New Evidence in Move to Pardon Rollins Brothers

SUFFERINGS OF TOTS ARE URGENT

Fathers Dead or Out of Work, Youths Often Main Support of Families

"I don't care to have toys but I would like to have some warm clothing . . ."

The Goodfellow Editor could quote that line from any one of several hundred appeals lying upon his desk. That particular one happens to be from Aldo, who lives in Malden and who writes this Yuletide season that he is a "sad boy, 11 years old." Here is his letter:

Dear Editor

I am a very sad boy 11 years old. My father has been sick for almost a year, and now he is in the hospital. My mother is not well, but she is looking for work. My sister is looking for work too, but it is hard because she is only 15.

I don't care to have toys, but I would like to have some warm clothing.

ALDO.

Malden.

FATHER LONG DEAD

From Lynn comes the following appeal:

Dear Editor:

I am sending my letter to you as I would like some warm clothing for my brother, 12 years, my sister, 11 years, and myself, 16 years. I would not be writing this only that I am out of work. I got laid off last week. My mother and I are the only support of the family as my father has been dead a long while.

Please don't forget us.

ERVIN.

OTHER WORTHY CASES

And if that isn't enough to make you want to be a Goodfellow, and dig down into your pocketbook, here is a resume of several other worthy cases now giving the Goodfellow Editor considerable worry.

CASE 1—Little boy, 6, would like some warm clothing for himself and his brother and sister, 3. His daddy is dead and his mother has been unable to find work.

CASE 2—Mother of seven children would like shoes and clothing for them. Father has lost his left hand and had a shock last January.

CASE 3—Little boy, 8, whose father has been out of work for nearly a year, would like some Goodfellow to give him a sweater and shoes.

CASE 4—Mother of five children asks for some warm clothing. Father has been out of work and they had to use the little money they had for coal and food.

CASE 5—Widow with two boys would be thankful for any help given her. The youngest boy, 14, is deformed and will never be able to work for himself.

CASE 6—Mother would like some little things for her three girls, the oldest 5. Father has been out of work since last August.

CASE 7—Widow with five children would appreciate anything that would help make her children happy Christmas.

It's easy enough to be a Goodfellow. If you want to help one of those particular families or some family in your own home district, write the Goodfellow Editor and he'll furnish names and addresses.

If you can't give the time to it yourself, send in your check for any amount and the Goodfellow Editor and his assistants will attend to Santa Claus commissions.

Eloped With Boston Flier

After keeping their romance a secret for two months, it has been learned that the former Edith F. Grassie of Cohasset and Guy A. "Gus" Ham, Jr., well known local pilot, eloped and were married at Middleton, N. Y., Oct. 15. Checks for $1181 Recovered After Cambridge Police Make Arrest

The arrest of a man by Cambridge police has revealed a scheme to steal pension and disability money from a war veteran, and resulted in recovery of more than $1100 for Richard H. Buckman of Austin st., Cambridge, and placed the alleged thief under arrest.

Harry O'Reilly, 29, of Beach st., Revere, who, police say, was victimizing Buckman, was locked up on charges of larceny and forgery. Two checks, for $1111.28 and $70.58, sent by the government to Buckman according to police, were located in a Boston savings bank, credited to O'Reilly through the latter's forgery.

About two weeks ago, O'Reilly came to 93 Austin st., which is a lodging house, to visit a friend and picked up the larger check on the staircase, which he later endorsed and deposited in his own name in the savings bank, it is charged. He attempted to draw on it but the bank officials told him he would have to wait a month, as he had not identified himself.

A few days after finding this check, O'Reilly arrived at the lodging house just as the postman left the second check for Buckman from the government, and police say that he took this check and added it to his account.

Police also allege that O'Reilly wrote to the Federal Treasury, directing that all mail for Buckman be sent in care of a New York magazine in the future, with the intent to write for mail and thereby get future checks.

ALLEN'S WATCHERS, STATE POLICE GUARD POLLS IN TWO CITIES

20 SENT TO CHELSEA BY GOVERNOR

Thirty Voters Challenged by Whalen; Detectives on Duty in Everett

Governor Fuller's action sending observers to the ten polling places in Chelsea to oversee the voting, on request of former Mayor John O. Whalen, running against Mayor Lawrence E. Quigley, in one of the most bitter political battles ever waged there.

Two observers were inside each voting booth. It was expected that more than 12,000 of Chelsea's 14,500 registered voters would cast their ballots today.

30 VOTERS CHALLENGED

One feature was the challenging of 30 voters by Mr. Whalen and his workers. Those challenged had moved from Chelsea since April 1, but their names are still on the voting list. Mayor Quigley claims they had a legal right to vote. Both candidates were active at the polling places.

Another hot battle was staged in Everett between Mayor James A. Logbe and Michael C. O'Neil, who resigned as sub master of the Everett High school to run for mayor. O'Neil topped Roche in the primary by many votes and his friends insisted he would do likewise today.

Every member of Everett police department was assigned to duty at the polls and plans were made to have reserves on duty late in the day when most of the voting will take place.

STATE POLICE ON HAND

Seven State police officers, headed by Edward J. Sherlock and Edward P. O'Neil, moved from one ward to another, keeping close watch on all. They were assigned by Dep. Atty. Robert G. Crowell.

As in Chelsea, the voting in Everett was unusually heavy and early, promising a record ballot. The registration is 16,500.

In the primary 12,951 votes were cast. Indications were that a total would exceed the primary vote by many.

A light vote was cast in Beverly today because there was no mayoralty contest. One contest was between Louis S. Archer, present city council president, and John W. Hennessey.

FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Mayor John D. Devir seeks re-election for a sixth term in Malden. Former Mayor William A. Hastings, secretary of the Malden Chamber of Commerce, is opposing him.

There is a four-cornered fight in Newton with Alderman Sinclair Weeks, son of the late Secretary of War John W. Weeks, opposed by Alderman William P. Earle, chairman of the board of public works, Alderman George M Heathcote and John H. Murray, a realtor.

Mayor Michael A. Landers seeks a second term in Lawrence, with Alderman John W. McCarthy, director of city engineering, opposing him.

In Woburn, Philip J. Gallagher, secretary of the Woburn Chamber of Commerce, is opposed by Chairman Herman P. Peterson of the school committee.

Brings Silver Exhibit

Miss Audrey Talcott of London, who arrived aboard the S. S. Laconia, brought a number of silver pieces for exhibition purposes in this country. The Laconia had a rough passage and arrived a day late.

LACONIA BADLY BATTERED BY STORMS

Worst Crossing in 30 Years, Says Capt. Doyle; Liner Arrives 30 Hours Late

The Cunard liner Laconia docked here over a day late after what Capt. Michael Doyle termed the worst crossing he had experienced in 30 years.

The Laconia met rough weather all the way from Liverpool and Queenstown and was delayed exactly 30 hours.

Although no one on board was injured, mountainous seas swept across the liner's decks, smashing pilot house windows, bowling over ventilators and lifting life boat from the chocks.

Among the passengers were Wilfred Grenfell, of Arctic missionary fame, and Lady Grenfell returning from a two months' stay in England. He said Lord Macley had presented the mission with the framework for a new hospital to be erected at Cartwright, Labrador, to be known as the Lady Macley Memorial Hospital, in memory of his wife.

Mrs. Charlotte R. Hope, who has served two terms as Mayoress of Liverpool, and is a sister of Sir Frederick Bowring, came over to spend the winter with her sister in California.

Sir John Broderick, accompanied by Lady Broderick, were on board. They are going to Washington, where Sir John is counselor for the British Embassy.

L. W. O. Williamson of Glengoyles, Scotland, came over for the express purpose of marrying Miss Grace Drayton, daughter of a New York banker, who resides in Englewood. They will be married Saturday and will leave on their honeymoon on the motorship Bremen for England.

Capt. William Gray, commander of the British steamer City of Hankow, which arrived Saturday at the pier adjacent to the Laconia, was waiting for his wife, who was a passenger. As soon as the customs formalities were complied with the captain and Mrs. Gray boarded the City of Hankow, which then left for New York.

JUDGESHIP FOR MANSFIELD RUMORED

Visit of Mayoralty Candidate at State House Sets "Pols" Talking

A visit of Frederick W. Mansfield, recent Good Government Association candidate for mayor of Boston, to the executive offices in the State House set political pot boiling today in view of the fact that Mansfield's name has been mentioned in connection with a judicial appointment at various times during the past two months.

Although there is no known vacancy on the superior court bench, which is the place to which a Municipal appointment is said to be, if the offing there have been numerous rumors by one or more of the judges for some time.

As the conclusion of his conference with Governor Allen, however, it was said that Mansfield and Frank W. Grinnell called as member of the Massachusetts Judicial Council to discuss informally with the governor the forthcoming recommendations of that council in for legislation.

Three-Alarm Mistake Causes Excitement

A three-alarm "misunderstanding" caused excitement in Everett, tying up traffic for half a mile on each side of the L terminal, and delaying commuters.

The fire was on the private property of the Boston Elevated where two old cars were being burned. The blaze lighted the sky and passing motorists, thinking that a fire was in progress, sounded two alarms.

A third alarm came from a woman on Beacham st., via telephone and all the fire engines in Everett rushed to the scene.

A little misunderstanding on the part of the firemen caused the engines to be going in all directions in South Everett. Some fire authorities after leaving the Elevated station went to Beacham st. and others to the Beacon Oil Company.

All this time traffic was being blocked and cars entering Everett station were blocked as well as those inside the station.

LEGION DRIVE FOR 100,000

A record membership for 1930 in the American Legion posts throughout the State was the plan outlined at a meeting of the Suffolk County Council Post Commanders of the American Legion, under the chairmanship of Frank Fov, State vice commander, in the State House headquarters.

With the membership goal set at the 100,000 mark, the commanders of the State posts plan to win a bet of 12 boxes of oranges from the State of California in establishing a record membership for next year. If Massachusetts loses the bet, 12 boxes of shoes will be sent to the American Legion of California.

This wager is only one of the examples of the enthusiasm that is being shown throughout the State in raising members of the American Legion for 1930.

Man Is Held for Misuse of Loan

Isadore Richard, 51, formerly of 36 Bennett st., Waltham, was arraigned in Waltham court on a charge of misusing the proceeds of a construction loan of $2200, the first instalment of its kind to be issued in that court under a new law.

It is alleged that after obtaining the loan on a house on Grove at. he failed to meet the bills for material furnished and owed to Gardner. He was held in $2000 bail and his case continued until December 14.

Thinks Errant Hubby Vamped by Beauty

Whether Ernest F. Hall of Lowell comes home in disgrace or in good matters nothing to his 4-year-old son, Ernest, Jr., who has prayed for his daddy's return ever since he deserted him and his mother last September.

Junior hears his elders talk about how his daddy ran away with "Miss New Hampshire," deserted her in Detroit and ignominously married another girl in Pittsburgh three weeks ago but to him it is all an adventure which has temporarily interrupted his romps with daddy.

This is a terrible tragedy for Junior. Mrs. Hall said at the home of her parents on Brookside ave., Jamaica Plain, "He was always crazy about his daddy and Ernest loved him so much that I simply cannot understand how he could have left us like this. I blame the New Hampshire girl who probably vamped him when he did not know what he was doing.

"He was worried about me being ill and I think he was so confused that he really did not realize what he was doing when he eloped with her.

Mrs. Hall is a frail looking little woman who has not yet fully recovered from the illness from which she was suffering when her husband disappeared.

Hall had gone away from home several times when he was younger, she said, and last winter when discouraged he went away for the 6 weeks but begged his wife to watch over him and never let him leave again.

Mrs. Hall declared that she will attend the trial in New Hampshire when Hall is tried on charges of violating the Mann Act. "I do not know whether I can forgive him or not," she said. "I want to hear his side of the story first. I am so confused I hardly know what I am doing."

4 PLAYWHIST 15½ HOURS

Newton's Marathon whist game at the home of Lineer and Clarence Quinn, 1113 Washington st., West Newton, under the supervision of their mother, Mrs. Clara Quinn, ended today with a new record of 15 hours and 30 minutes of continuous play.

The winners are Lineer Quinn and Wade Hutchinson. They took 145 games from William C. McKay and Clarence Quinn, who won 40. In the absence of Mrs. Quinn during the night the play was supervised by Edward Gill.

All but Clarence Quinn retired after the games for a day of rest. Clarence went to school.

SOUND HARBOR FOR SHOALS

Army engineers, working from a dory, are taking soundings in the harbor today. The survey was ordered as one of a series they are to perform to locate spots that might become shoal.

The work is expected to take several days in the harbor, after which the findings will be traced on charts of the harbor at the Custom House office of the engineers.

Heinie Wagner to Manage Red Sox If CarriganQuits

LOCAL CLUBS SEEKING NEW PLAYERS

By NICK FLATLEY

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 10—Baseball business is like the stock market these days—there's very little trading. All the magnates from here to New South Wales are gathered in this village, for the annual league meetings, but business is rotten, as they say along the Bourse.

Both Boston club owners are over with money and players to sell, but or swap, but neither has any great hope of getting anywhere. The boys who have the good ones refuse to let go, and propositions they make when approached would put a fright manager to flame.

Flatley

There are hundreds of pitchers on both Boston teams who would look good on championship outfits. And the champion owners want them. But the trades they almost bring the blush of shame to their own chubby faces. Baseball has reached a stage where clubs, unless they can throw around millions, like the Chicago Cubs, must develop their own material. And that's a tough break for the lowly, like the Boston Braves, which have not had unlimited gold for minor league planting purposes these last four or five years.

UNEMPLOYED PURSUE QUINN

President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox is the most pursued man in baseball. Since the word has gone out that Bill Carrigan will not come back, every bird in the game, who hasn't a good job wants to come to Boston.

There are hundreds of unemployed present, and they argue that, lacking qualifications, they can do as well, at least, with the club, as anybody has since the war.

But President Bob still clings to a shred of hope. He put the pressure on Lewiston Bill up in Boston last week, and got that great manager to say that he would try to arrange his affairs, so that he could return.

Bill was pretty well sick of the job last fall, and made up his mind to retire. This decision was strengthened when he found himself sick during most of the month of November.

The club had not the material of the money and Bill found himself going nowhere, although he did work a good pitching staff into shape. The chances are 10 to 1 that he will not return, despite the keyexpressed hopes. If he doesn't, Heinie Wagner, the right guy, will be selected but the next pilot of the Fins will not be able to do it totally though, as Quinn will have his decision to say.

QUINN SEEKS PLAYERS

Meantime, President Quinn is trying to do some trading, and getting nowhere. He figured that he picked up a real big leaguer in First Baseman Sweeney, who draws on the draft, and he might listen to proposals for Todt, the fast fielding first sacker in the circuit. But nobody is willing to give anything worthwhile.

Bob could let some of his pitching-lists of the Braves want Ruffing and Morris—but what he might acquire in return wouldn't help him a bit of good.

Judge Fuchs of the Braves is in the same situation. He has designs at different but solid league jobs, but none will talk turkey, unless the judge tosses one of his six pitchers into the trade. And as the retired manager refuses to do.

"I know that a pitching staff is half a ball club," he remarks, "and think we have that half. Why should I let my pitchers go and start right back where we started seven years ago?

BRAVES MAKE BIDS

"We want a catcher and an infielder and a regular outfielder, if we can't give away pitchers to get them. Bill McKechnie talked over the minor league field thoroughly down in Charleston, and couldn't find a thing. Knows the trading racket, and is in full charge, here.

"His will not hurt the club by letting good men out, and he may be able to help it before these doings close. We have made our different bids that look logical from our point of view and the bonis one of them will go through, we're hoping, which it would have been, but for the last minute snare or two. But figure we'll better combine than now

Scott Took the Easiest Way Out, Says Von Porat

New York, Dec. 10 (INS)—Otto Von Porat admitted after the fight that he had struck Phil Scott low, but declared that his opponent took the "easiest way out." Von Porat added:

"I hit him below the belt, but nowhere near as hard as he made out. It wasn't nearly hard enough to drop him off his feet. I never fouled a man in my life. I have never even been warned for hitting low. Scott had a chance to get out, and he took it."

RAWSON AFTER 24TH KNOCKOUT

Larry Big Boy Rawson, Worchester knockout king, will make a bid for his 23rd knockout in 24 fights next Monday night, when he will battle Al Friedman of Roslindale in the 10 round feature bout of the Arena A. C. show.

Rawson has stirred up more discussion among fight fans than any heavyweight since the pugilistic infancy of Jack Dempsey. His punches travel only inches, yet he is undoubtedly the hardest hitting heavyweight in the world today. Just a natural puncher, 20 years old and 190 pounds in weight, he is as big as Dempsey was when he backed Jess Willard to pieces on the banks of the Maumee some years back.

"Rawson is the greatest heavyweight prospect I have ever seen," said Martin Flaherty, one of the greatest featherweights of all time, after the Big Boy had finished training at Flaherty's camp in Wanesit. "That covers a long time, a lot of territory, and a flock of heavyweights, but I mean it when I say that Rawson is the greatest prospect I have ever seen."

"Where he gets his punch from, I don't know," continued Flaherty. "His whole body goes with every punch he throws. You talk about his right hand, but his left is just as dangerous. He has been here three weeks now, and naturally, since he has boxed every day, his footwork has improved tremendously. I've never gone on record before, but I want to predict that in two years, Big Boy Rawson will be heavyweight champion of the world."

21-Year-Old Youth Beats Billiard Champ

Detroit, Dec. 10 (INS)—Marcel Camp, 21 year-old Detroit sensation, was a step closer to the title of billiards championship. He defeated Frank Taberski, present champion, 125 to 82, in 23 innings, in the inaugural match of the world tournament.

Three matches are on the tournament schedule for this afternoon: Erich Rudolph, Chicago, vs. Ottilio Dan Brooklyn; Pasquale Natale, Detroit, vs. Joe Meeker, Toronto, and Ralph Greenleaf, New York, vs. Spencer Lissey, Los Angeles.

Mays Beats Casper at New Bedford

New Bedford, Dec. 10—Bobby Mays, lightweight champion of Connecticut, was too fast and clever for Johnny Casper of Lansing, Mich., in their 10-round bout by outscoring his opponent all the way.

Casper has a murderous right-hand punch, but Mays blocked it almost perfectly with his elbows and forearms and scored freely on Casper's jaw with both hands.

Pancho Villa and Charley Many settled a previously postponed argument in another 10-round bout. Villa having the better of the bout and receiving the decision. Young Dennis of New Bedford won a six-round bout from Teddy Benoit of Westport, and Panama Roy Brooks beat Bud Dempsey in another six-rounder.

Black Hawks Move to Chicago Stadium

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Chicago Black Hawks will play the balance of their National Hockey League schedule in the Chicago stadium, starting Sunday.

With the Hawks in second place in the American group, hockey has become so popular in Chicago that the Coliseum, their present home, is inadequate to handle the crowds.

Dinner for Caridco

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Dec. 10 (INS)—Frank Caridio, Notre Dame quarterback, and almost unanimous choice for all-American honors this year, will be given complimentary dinner by his fellow-townsmen here December 20.

King of Jockeys

Laverne Fator receives the largest salary of any jockey in America, and probably the world, $23,000 a year, plus a share in his winnings. Frank Coltietti is second with $20,000.

MAT GIANTS READY FOR BATTLE

DISPLAYING a varied assortment of mat tricks, John Poddubny, giant Russian wrestling champion, ambled through a strenuous workout at a local gym in preparation for his fitness match with George Kotsonoras, claimant to the Greek title, at the Boston Arena tomorrow night.

The big Russian once more clearly demonstrated why some grappling critics claim him to be the best "bone-crusher" sent out of Russia since the balmy days of George Hackenschmidt. His has speed, strength, cleverness and apparently all other ingredients that go to mix the layer cake of supremacy.

Kotsonoras did only light training. He announced he is in shape to put up the hardest mat battle of his colorful career against the Russian star. He expects to defeat Poddubny in a decisive manner.

The card, being promoted by Mr. Ada Tuohey and Leslie Shower, will feature five spectacular all-star bouts. In the other tussles, Wlacek Zbyszko, ex-heavyweight champion of the world, goes to war with Jack Taylor, Canadian titleholder; Tommy Drask, heavyweight king of the Netherlands, tangles with Joe Wagner, the Providence flash; Jack Sherry, sensational ebo man-mountain, goes to the mat with Big Bob Wilkinson of the heavyweight mat division in Mutinguay, while the curtain-raiser has not been named.

30 OUT FOR B. U. TRACK TEAM

Because of the icy condition of the track the practice was limited. Only veterans who arrived with their spikes were permitted to use the boards.

Burns plans to limit practice to limbering and conditioning exercises for the next week. He will then begin intensive work with the 1930 one-mile relay team which is entered in the I. A. A., K. of C. and Millrose A. A. games. The quartet of Norman George, Norman Bicknell, S. Bernhardt and Stuart Tarr, with alternate Ronald Harmon, has returned this season. It is expected that will be the same men to compete this winter.

Only one change is expected and that will be the replacing of Harmon for Bicknell in the opening race at the Knights of Columbus games. Bicknell will be entered in the dashes.

Although Burns is fairly well fortified with candidates for the running events, he lacks weight-men and will make an effort this week to have several of the football players report.

A freshman track team, the first in the history of B. U. athletics, will be formed. Burns will enter many of the outstanding freshmen in the invitation games and is attempting to arrange a freshman meet with Brown, to be held in conjunction with the varsity meet at Providence, Feb. 21. A one-mile freshman relay team also will be formed.

B. U. Yearlins Not to Have Hockey Team

There will be no freshman hockey team at Boston University this winter as originally planned, but the first year ice candidates will join the varsity squad to gain experience for next winter.

There is a wealth of good hockey material among the ranks of the freshmen but they must content themselves with serving as trial horses for the varsity in scrimmages.

The leading players to report with the frosh are Dan Harring ton, Art Wilson and Dick Gardner all from Newton high school; Loring Cushman from Melrose, Walter Bender and Norman Reardon from Arlington, Norman Belden from Tilton Seminary, James Blenkhorn from Stoneham and George Reardon from Lynn Classical.

Seven 4-Round Bouts on Garden Program

JACKIE FIELDS, who meets Gorilla Jones in the feature bout at the Garden Friday night is rated as the greatest Jewish ring star since the reign of Benny Leonard.

Already he has scored numerous knockdowns in his training work here, in fact most of his sparring partners, after going to the mat, from crushing left hooks turn over the task to somebody else.

According to Eddie Mack, Garden matchmaker, who seldom becomes excited over a fighter, Field is the greatest performer of ever showed in this city, greater as a club fighter than Sam Langford, Harry Greb, Frank Klan, Panchc Villa and Tiger Flowers.

In addition to an eight-round semifinal between Buster Brown of Baltimore and Jerry Mesner of the North End, the Garden will introduce a little novelty by presenting seven four-round bouts in the preliminary card. It is expected that the four-rounders will be fast and furious and will not tire the spectators as some longer bouts.

Harry Stabine of the West End and Al Backow of Winthrop will clash in the opening four-rounder while Joe O'Donnell of Roxbury will meet the hard hitting Providence welterweight, Mike Harrington. Jimmy Hoag of Syracuse, a newcomer here, will take on Al Delgaldo of the North End.

Young Lefty of Fall River and Tommy Harper of the North End will clash in another four-round event while Izzy Hyman, a recent arrival here from England will make his bow against Nick Madonna of Lexington.

Joe Mack of Manchester will oppose Al Linzi of Italy, while two bantyweights are also carded Jimmy Regan of Gardner and Sandy Jack Taylor of Charlestown.

Swimming Under Way at Huntington

The formal opening of the winter sports season at Huntington will take place Friday afternoon when the annual Maroon and Black competition in the tank and on the track will be held. Hunting will be divided all week, half the school boosting the Blacks and half the Maroons. So far as possible the rivals are balanced to make the competition keen.

The track events include a 40-yard dash, 45-yard hurdles, 300, 600, and 1000-yard runs, high jump, shot and relay, while the tank events include a 50, 100 and 200-yard free style, 100-yard backstroke, 100-yard breaststroke, dive and relay.

The high individual scorer in the swimming meet will have his name inscribed on the Bates Cup, while the high track man will have his name inscribed on the Hunting Cup.

Schaaf Is Beaten by Johnny Risko

Cleveland, Dec 10 — Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, staged a comeback in the last three rounds of his battle with Ernie Schaaf of Boston here and was awarded Bob McFarland a decision at the end of the 12 rounds.

Baltzer of Quincy was elected captain of the Tech cross-country team Baltzer, who is the national junior 1000-yard champion has been a member of the Tech cross country and track teams for two years. In his freshman year, he was the star of the freshman cross-country squad and formerly held the yearling 600-yard record.

Baltzer prepared at Quincy High School where he was on both cross-country and track teams. He runs the mile in the spring on the cinders and the cross-country distance in the fall. Last winter, Baltzer was a member of the varsity two-mile indoor team.

By BILL GRIMES

ALTHOUGH the Pittsburgh Pirates are meeting with their usual lack of success in National Hockey League competition, there will be a large gathering at the Boston Garden tonight when Frank Fredrickson makes his debut as a manager.

In spite of the fact that the Pirates have lost seven of the eight games they have played this season, the Bruins are not taking this game too lightly.

Pittsburgh was out of the race from the start last season but they managed to give the Bruins some very anxious moments. The Smoky City team had always been troublesome for Boston. There is a very keen rivalry existing between these clubs and the Pirates always appear to have a chip on their shoulder.

Bill Grimes

Manager Art Ross will again reserve his decision as to his starting lineup until game time, but a prediction is that Dutch Gainor, Cooney Weiland and Dit Clapper would have the call. This trio is playing the best possible brand of hockey. They have outmaneuvered every defense in the league with the exception of the Blackhawks.

Dutch Gainor is the key to the success of this line. Although Dutch has always been recognized as a brainy player, he was not generally appreciated until the new rules were adopted. There are few harder forwards in the league to outguess than Dutch Gainor.

He has perfected a double shift, which all opponents admit, is almost unstoppable. Gainor is a fine passer and his clever feeding of the puck to Weiland and Clapper has resulted in many goals for the Bruins.

The Gainor - Weiland - Clapper combination looks better in every game. Due to their success, they are gaining confidence weekly and soon will be rated as the fastest forward line of the N. H. L.

As was the case last season, Tiny Thompson is the fair-haired boy with the Bruin fans. Few goalies have been as heavily bombarded as Tiny, but the Calgary boy has managed to more than hold his own. Every team the Bruins have played this season hand the palm to Tiny Thompson for his sensational goal tending.

Capt. Lionel Hitchman and Ed Shore will be on the points for the Bruins, but George Owen and Hutton, recently recalled from the Philadelphia Arrows, will see service.

Manager Frank Fredrickson must rely upon his veterans. The Pirates are represented by the same outfit which has been endeavoring to hold the fort for Pittsburgh for years.

Freddie will work with Hal Darragh and Hib Milks, with Burt McKinnon and Roger Smith on the outer defense and Joe Miller in the nets.

The Pittsburgh second line is composed of Archie Briden, a former Bruin who was with the Arrows last season; our old friend, Herb Drury of United States Olympic team fame and Lowery, while Manners, Barton and Jarvis, three youngsters, will also be tried out.

3 GAMES AHEAD FOR TIGERS

Boston Tigers will leave Boston at 11 o'clock tonight to begin another stretch of intensive hockey. The team will pay the strenghtened Philadelphia team in Philadelphia tomorrow night. Springfield Indians in the Garden Thursday night and Providence Reds now managed by Sprague Cleghorn on Saturday.

Except for Ponal Contant, who still is hors de combat because of a dislocated shoulder, the Bengals are in good shape and hot to re-establish themselves at the top of the league batch they consider their rightful position.

The boys got in a fast workout at the Garden this morning in which Clark Heyd, snap-shooting left winger, worked with Deacon Weiste and Hank Hood on the first forward line. It is probable that Manager Powers will start the Philadelphia game with this combination.

Heyd, whose shot is ideal for a wing caught no profit from working with Waite, who is a great playmaker and the league-leader in the matter of assists.

Philadelphia is not the slip-shop outfit it was a week ago Saturday when the Tigers won 7 to 2, in the Garden. Bibby Taylor of Brooklyne, former Tiger, has been loaned to the Arrows by the Bruins, and will play against his former teammates tomorrow.

The Arrows also have acquired "Gloomy" Lassard, a veteran left wing fro mthe American League. Thus reinforced the Arrows beat Providence Reds, 7 to 2, Sunday afternoon.

Griffith or Scott to Get Miami Bout With Sharkey

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

VON PORAT IS NOW OUT OF RUNNING

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden Corporation, announced today that he will not name Jack Sharkey's opponent for the bout at Miami, Fla., in February until next month as a result of the failure of the Scott-Von Porat tussle to furnish the expected thrills.

Jack Conway

The abrupt ending of the bout was a big disappointment to the capacity crowd which turned out for the bout.

The end came at the start of the second round. Von Porat rushed from his corner at the gong and let fly with a left hook for the body as he reached the centre of the ring. The blow landed low and Scott went to the canvas in a heap.

CROWD DISAPPOINTED

The crowd accepted the finish of the former champion, but was deeply disappointed at the unsatisfactory termination of the mill. Many of those at the ringside declared that while they believed Scott was hit low they did not believe that he had been seriously injured. They argued that if he wished he could have gone on with the bout.

The first round of the bout had been action, Scott resorted to long range boxing, while Von Porat paraded to close quarters. The Norwegian let fly with right hand socks for the jaw as he walked in, none of his well meant wallops reaching their objective.

Scott relied on his left hand at lack to keep Von Porat off. Then the opportunity presented itself, the British champion drove right handers to the body. Scott had a slight edge in the opening frame.

The Garden forces were rooting for a decisive victory for either Scott or Von Porat, as a happening would have given them a standout opponent for Sharkey for the Miami match.

GRIFFITH MAY GET BOUT

William F. Carey held a conference today with Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey. Buckley and Sharkey both attended the Scott-Von Porat bout. Carey informed Buckley that he would delay naming Sharkey's opponent for the battle of the palms until after the Tuffy Griffith-Johnny Risko bout on December 29 at the Garden.

In the event Griffith, who recently licked Paulino at Chicago, comes through with a sensational win over Risko, he may draw the Miami assignment.

Von Porat's defeat eliminates him from consideration. The battle for the Miami bout is now between Scott and Griffith. It is possible that the Garden may match Scott and Griffith for a January bout and then put the victor against Sharkey in February.

Carey stated that he has not received any word from Max Schmeling who is still in Germany. The Garden has Schmeling under contract and will move to stage a German boxing if he attempts to box for any other promoter.

In the prelims Marty Gallaghe, of Washington and Boston, got a fairly earned decision in 10 rounds from George Hoffman of this city.

Bill Daring (182½) won the knockout decision from Et Steele (185) and Paul Bianci (210), all of the W. from Argentine, got the decision another four-rounder from Jerry Pudelee (207) of this man's town.

After the main bout, Yale Okun of the East, aids light heavyweight ranks was beaten by Maxie Rosenbloom and beaten handily, fate weighed 170 and Maxie 174.

Dempsey Tells How Scott Was Fouled

By JACK DEMPSEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—I disqualified Von Porat and gave the fight to Phil Scott for the very adequate reason that Von Porat hit Scott a terrific left-hand foul blow as the first punch in the second round.

Von Porat's punch was a straight left shot with great power for a point far below Scott's belt. It was neither a hook nor an uppercut. The blow landed far down in foul territory and Scott crumpled helplessly to the floor.

I started no count. None was necessary. I saw the punch start. I saw where it landed. Scott was fouled and crippled and there was only one thing to do. I did it. I awarded the fight to Scott by disqualifying Von Porat.

The fight started off in fast and furious fashion. It promised a million dollars worth of action. Together with everybody, I looked for plenty of fireworks all the way and then came the regrettable finish in the second. I'm sorry that Von Porat had to lose on a foul. He is a good clean fighter.

His low punch was undoubtedly accidental but that, unfortunately for him, did not excuse him. The ring rules are clear on what a referee must do under the circumstances and I acted accordingly with the rules.

HARVARD LOOKS FOR STRONG SIX

With 23 candidates for Harvard 1929 hockey team all present or accounted for, Coach Joe Stobbs has begun work in earnest on the Crimson sextet which will open against U. C. on December 18.

Although the Cambridge coach has had only four workouts on ice in the Garden so far Stobbs is confident that he will build a very strong club for the year's campaign.

The leading ice berth-men are almost certain of answering the referee's whistle against E. F. Hutchinson Putnam, of Detroit, John Cross and Charles Eaton on the wings, Johnny Garrison and Sam Batchelder are defense men and Hardy Ellis in the cage.

According to the dopesters Harvard will have an attacking unit this year which will be fully as good as that of last year's sextet. In addition to Puttee Eaton and Cross, there is Frank Stobbs, sophomore, who is a strong bid for a first string wing spot.

GOOD GOLF

BY CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

One of the most common subjects I could bring forward for the benefit of advanced golfers is one with only [illegible] of the common [illegible] subjects of scoring [illegible] up. In these lessons however, we shall go into "looking up", and look down on it for what it really is. Looking up, in the sense that you probably think of it, is not looking up at all. Looking up, in the sense that you probably never think of it, is one of the biggest bars to good scores that you have to contend with. It is seldom that you actually look up from the ball, even though nearly every time you stroke a bad one, some companion will say, "You looked up too soon." Instead of looking up as you think, what happened is that you never entered your attention on the ball before you [illegible] the [illegible] occupied [illegible]

Therefore you [illegible] have been looking at you [illegible] cornfield as you swung. The hit would have been about the same, and "looking up" had nothing to do with it.

LONDOS OUT FOR TITLE MATCH

JIMMY LONDOS, Greek [illegible] wrestling champion [illegible] meets Joe [illegible] in the [illegible] match of Billy Avery's all-star [illegible] at the Mechanics Building tomorrow night, is angling for world's championship match.

The famous Greek grappler, unquestionably one of the greatest heavyweights in the wrestling game today, has been performing in sensational style during the past [illegible] months and should he brush aside Komar it will be mighty hard for the promoters to deny him a crack at the title which is claimed by both Dick Shikat and Gus Sonnenberg.

This will be Londos' first appearance in a Boston ring in several years. At one time he was one of the outstanding favorites of the [illegible] The Komar-Londos [illegible] promises to be a thrilling [illegible] [illegible] between two [illegible] Efforts have been made to match the Lithuanian and Greek on several occasions in the past.

ICE STARS OUT FOR NEW TEAM

There has been a great response from the amateur hockey players of Greater Boston to try out for Boston's new amateur hockey team.

The name of this team is still under [illegible] upon but it will be coached by Herb Reaume, star goalie for the Boston Tigers. Reaume will be assisted by Eddie Routhier, who was president of the Bay State Hockey League for the past three years.

William J. Flynn, former vice-president of the league, is managing this new sextet, and is anxious to hear from any players who think they can qualify to play for this aggregation. Thus far, Flynn has lined up four ex-college hockey captains, with a possibility of signing up a fifth.

These four players are "Sid" Silverberg, Boston University goalie last year; Dick Harrell, of last year's Holy Cross sextet; Fred Cox, formerly of Massachusetts "Aggies," and "Gyp" Lawless, formerly of Boston University. John "Smoke" Kelley, former player-manager of Boston College, will also [illegible] on this new lineup.

DeGlane to Sub for McCoy in Mat Bout

A PAIR of the most sensational young wrestlers in the sport [illegible] Henri DeGlane [illegible] University of Michigan—will take part in Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling tournament at the Grand Opera House, Thursday night.

DeGlane, the most spectacular grappler France has ever sent to America in quest of mat glory, is to meet Joe Devito, rugged Italian heavyweight from Providence, in the feature bout while E. George, with three startling victories in less than three minutes total time, is to tackle Frank Yusko of South Boston in another bout on the same card.

The DeGlane-Devito battle will be a rough and sensational affair from the very outset. Both are rugged, tough and willing to resort to most any kind of milling in order to assure victory over a rival.

DeGlane, who will take the place of Bob "Bibber" McCoy against Devito, since Bibber was operated upon yesterday at his home for blood poisoning, resulting from a boil, witnessed Devito and McCoy put on their savage bout at the Arena last week and wants it known that Devito will get the same kind of treatment the Italian might be looking for.

DeGlane is determined to win in a clean-cut fashion Thursday night, but insists that he'll [illegible] as Devito ever dared be. Judging from the keen rivalry between the principals, the customers will receive a real return for their money.

In more than a year and a half of ring activity, DeGlane has yet to lose a bout. He is gaining friends with every show and is fast becoming the idol of Hub wrestling fans. The match should be thrilling throughout.

Bill Dolan of Dedham, a young local wrestler, who aspires to reach the top, and the veteran Jack Atbright will meet in a match in one of the preliminaries.

Tufts Freshmen Court Squad Out

IOWA ALUMNI ATTACK HEAD

Chicago, Dec. [illegible] volt against the present administration of the University [illegible] because of conditions in [illegible] department [illegible] ousting [illegible] Big Ten [illegible]

Superior [illegible] Judge [illegible] Kinley of Chicago [illegible] the Iowa Alumni [illegible] openly attacked Pres. [illegible] up and requested [illegible] board of education to investigate not only the athletic department but also the "cause of dissension and discord that has existed in departments of the university other than athletic."

"It is now time for the alumni to speak out," Judge McKinley said. "The ousting of Iowa is no longer an athletic matter. It ceases to be exclusively a university matter. It now becomes a matter that affects by reflection every alumnus of the university, wherever located, as well as every citizen of the State of Iowa whose taxes support that great institution."

Ever since the Western Conference faculty committee voted last May to sever athletic relations with the Hawkeyes, effective Jan. 1, many Iowa alumni have been condemning the actions of President Jessup, whom they charged with "bungling" the matter. But until today, none of Judge McKinley's power in alumni matters has come forth publicly with a statement to that effect.

COOK-COOS

by Ted Cook

[illegible]

Let us turn, for the moment, from the ridiculous to the sublime, and all enjoy a good cry from the following soul wringing news story.

CHICAGO—Gloria Swanson sat in a tiny seat at Hawthorne school here today and was told to be a good little girl. She sat before the same teacher she had years ago, and marched with the little girls and boys six and seven years old. And as memories came back to the actress—memories of when she was not a titled lady—tears unashamed, stole down her cheeks.

We will now pause gracefully while those coming in late ring back for clean handkerchiefs.

You would think that Gloria had suffered enough for one day but no. The story continues—

"At recess time Gloria marched from the room with the same tears in her eyes."

(And if anyone suggests that they were g[illegible] tears ... well, we're in no mood for levity.)

Furthermore—

"And as she was whisked away in a big limousine she said 'These were the happiest days of my life.'"

RUTH APPLAUDS AUTHOR'S TALK AGAINST WINE'

PALACES OF SIN: If you think hard you will remember that yesterday the author was standing on his feet, admonishing people who drink wine and champagne in the presence of ladies. Today we print the description of the scene that followed—remember that the guests are at the home of Mrs. G., and the Michigan Beauty is attended by Alonzo A., a good-for-nothing rake. Here, according to the text, is what happened—

"Away down about the middle of the table a little golden haired girl hysterically clapped her dainty hands, and this little angel was Ruth Willmore. All the other 'she devils' gave me looks to 'freeze your feet.' Mrs. G. says, 'Oh, when did you join the Salvation Army?' Everybody laughed at my expense, because I refused to taste society's 'strychnine.'"

He Had a Date to Fly With Pat

This Guy admitted to the police, but claimed he did not keep it, having been kidnaped and locked up. Dazed and half starved, the young man was prodded with questions for hours.

"But what about the telegram you sent and the kid's hair in your machine?"

They passed a tree. Guy leaned against it. He flung a pale, sunken face into the flashlight's glare.

"Is some crime pinned on me? What? I've been down in a hole, bound, gagged and handcuffed—days—a week—maybe more. What I supposed to have done?"

"And how long have you been here?"

"This makes the third night."

"Uh huh and you don't know why you came, do you?"

With a choking bitterness that brought the dog leaping to his defense: "I was brought here!"

"Bound, gagged and handcuffed I suppose?"

"Yes!"

"And the dog?"

"Found me this afternoon."

"All right. Keep it up, Elliott. It's your goose that [illegible]"

[illegible] tried to [illegible] the cap [illegible] until they had [illegible] him. Three of them fired questions.

He was dazed, half-starved and almost in collapse. They denied him food; even a cigarette. He dropped momentarily into sleep. They prodded him so that he shot upright to confront them with startled, hating defiance. They went again and again over the same ground.

"Where's you car?"

"A moment ago you said you left it at Lafayette square."

A bewildered look answered this. The detective went on quietly:

"But you're not very clear about things that happened Monday. Perhaps you recall a date you had with Patricia Dawn? Yes? But you were late in keeping it, weren't you?"

"I don't keep the date. I [illegible] keep it!"

"But you expected to. Where were you when you phoned the mechanic at Mills Field to tune up your motor?"

Guy's chin had sunk on his chest. He started upright.

"My plane? I didn't phone to tune it up from anywhere!"

"Yes . . . When you were talking to Don Morse, you told him to have it ready."

"I [illegible] NOT."

"Perhaps you never promised the little Bryce a ride in your plane. Will you answer that with NO?"

"I'd often promised him a ride."

"What time was it Monday afternoon when you decided to get the kid and give him that ride?"

Down into the wavering depths of Guy's infinite fatigue came these little bright whips cutting on his face.

"Did you go for the boy yourself or did you send for him? How far did you take him?"

"Go!" What's the meaning of it all.

"I sent a telegram."

"What did you say?"

"That I'd take their job in a week."

"Did you say: 'Bryce is going to release me. In a week, I'll have exclusive controls of my patents?'"

"Something like that."

"How were you going to force Bryce to give you control?"

"I don't know. I figured that no man can keep another out of a job."

"You admit there was bad blood between you and Bryce and that you meant to bring him to his knees. What have you done with the kid?"

A pair of half-maddened eyes looked stormily from one to the other. With shut teeth, the prisoner shot:

"What am I supposed to have done? Hasn't a man a right to know the crime charged against him? What hairs of what kid are you talking about?"

"And you don't know who these fellows were who came into that dark passage as you were leaving the plant and slugged you? Don't know where they took you nor who your jailer was?"

"In a whole week you hadn't one chance to get a look at the man? And you don't know of any fiendish enemy who might have plotted this?"

They did not tell him just what had happened. But they dropped cruelly arousing hints. As he slipped from one exhausted doze into another they suddenly interjected Pat's name with a phrase that ran like fire into Guy's heart. He knew not whether he dreamed this incredible torture or whether it was true that evil had come to Pat. He cried out and pleaded with them.

They saw he could be reached with Pat's name. They used it unmercifully.

To no avail. He came back again and again with the same story. A stenographer took it down and Guy signed his name to it. It was this:

"Monday at 1 o'clock, after the shutdown of the plant, Guy sent a telegram to Carl Brunner, telling him that within a week he would get Bryce to release his patents.

"He had formed no plan to force Bryce, but felt confident that his former partner would not try to bind him by a contract whose spirit he was himself violating. He was prepared to take the matter to court. Beyond this he had no definite plan.

"After sending the wire he went to the door leading into the wards and whistled for his dog. He was leaving the plant and wished to take the dog with him. He waited nearly an hour. The dog didn't answer his summons.

"He started for home, going out by way of the passage that connected his work rooms with Bryce's office.

"A few steps down the hall he heard someone approach. Before he could turn he felt a smashing blow. He had a hazy recollection of being dumped into a car.

"The next thing he knew he was lying on a mattress, stripped, his hands locked behind him and a helmet which effectively blindfolded and gagged him was fastened on his head. He could move about 10 feet, when a manacle chained to his leg pulled him back.

"He was kept in this prison and the blindfold not removed from his eyes. Someone came at uncertain intervals, removed the gag and fed him."

"Did you struggle to get free?"

"At first—yes."

"You wore the handcuffs for the whole week?"

There were no marks on Guy's wrists. None on his leg. He couldn't explain this. He could explain nothing.

By midnight the morning papers had an extra on the streets.

Late the next afternoon Guy was charged with the crime. He was held as the kidnapper of little Billy Bryce. Not a word came back from Pat.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT do most of the folks you know want to get out of life? That's easy to answer—comfort, pleasure, safety. Enough fun to make them happy, enough money to keep them from being bothered, no sorrow or trouble or dangerous risk. Now and then some ambitious guy wants to burn up the road, but most of us just want to sit pretty and take things easy.

Elsie Robinson

YET EASE AND SAFETY ARE ACTUALLY THE WORST THINGS THAT CAN HAPPEN TO US.

Havelock Ellis once said—"IF WE WANT TO LIVE IN ANY TRUE SENSE AT ALL WE ARE COMPELLED TO LIVE DANGEROUSLY."

That's the deepest truth—the best law—in life.

Danger? Most of us think of it as a disaster. Have you ever thought of danger as an OPPORTUNITY . . . A DOOR INTO A LARGER LIFE? Instinctively we dodge danger as something [illegible] something that menaces life and which should be avoided. BUT DANGER SERVES LIFE. Danger is as normal and necessary an accompaniment of growth as air and water and food. GROWTH CAN'T COME WITHOUT DANGER.

That has been true of every form of life, clear back to the first pollywog in the primeval ooze. Those that lived BIG had to live HARD. Those that got anywhere had to disregard comfort and caution and TAKE RISKS. PERIL IS THE PRICE OF EVOLUTION.

We'd still be wiggling around in slime if certain adventurous creatures hadn't ventured to poke out their noses and sniff air. And you may be sure the species gave them the dog eye when they did it! They not only risked social censure, they risked death. BUT THEY STARTED LIFE ON ITS LONG CLIMB UP TO MAN.

Pollywogs in primeval puddles . . . pioneers on the plain . . . the same law held for all. THOSE WHO LIVED GREATLY LIVED DANGEROUSLY. That law holds for you today.

You, today, can live BIG or live LITTLE, just as you choose. It may not be your lot to discover new continents, release electricity, reform a nation or die on a martyr's cross. But you can, within the scope of your own nature, do things quite as amazing. You, too, may be an adventurer . . . an inventor . . . a crusader . . . a poet . . . a conqueror. BUT TO DO SO YOU MUST LIVE DANGEROUSLY.

You must dare new ideas, as Hannibal dared the Alps. You must scorn discomforts and diversions as Edison scorned them . . . as all great workers have scorned them. You must face loneliness and misunderstanding and humiliation, as Lincoln faced them . . . For these are the dangers and trials that beset all advance. IF YOU EXPECT TO GO ON, YOU MUST PAY YOUR WAY!

And in return, what'll you get? "I can't hope for fame and glory like Lincoln and Edison," you say. I'm just a plain worker, that nobody knows. What's there in it for me if I live life dangerously?"

PLENTY! There's pride in it for you. And the sense of power, rising in you like a tide. And sometimes peace. And, once in a great while, a stirring glimpse of beauty. That's worth risking any danger.

Toys for the Children

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M. D., PH. D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

NOW that Christmas will soon be here, parents and all those who contemplate making presents to children should think of the possible harm that may come from giving them inappropriate toys.

Dr. L. E. Bisch

But it is not elaborate or expensive toys, mind you, but something that will hold their interest which affords the children the greatest joys.

A few oddly-shaped stones or a curved stick give children as much pleasures—often more—than a complicated piece of toy mechanism.

It's the imagination that the child adds to the toy, and not the toy itself, that gives the pleasure.

What should particularly be stressed about toys, however, is the avoidance of those that may do injury. Each year children are killed or maimed because of dangerous toys! Boys have shot each other to death at play. Children have been strangled while using a lasso in a game of Indians or cowboys.

We do not wish to rob our children of virility, to be sure. We do not want to make our boys fear little sissy types, either.

But under the mistaken idea that dangerous toys develop the instinct of self-preservation and pugnacity, we can go far afield in the latitude given play and create a constant menace to childhood's healthiest activities.

And the fact is that children get about as much fun imagining a piece of wood is a battle axe or a sword, as they would if they had an actual battle ax or sword.

When an aroused public gradually brought pressure to bear in forbidding by law the sale of fireworks for the Fourth of July celebrations sentimentalists felt an injustice had been done. But children manage somehow to enjoy this holiday without pistols, cannons and skyrockets.

In fact, the child's mind always manages very well in matters of substitution or elimination. Just a suggestion here and there to stimulate their imagination and any child soon finds itself content.

How often a parent has really stinted on other things in order to buy his boy or girl a costly toy such as, let us say, a small automobile, only to find that after a few days the child has set aside the auto and has tried to make one like it out of a soap box and a pair of baby carriage wheels.

What has happened, of course, is that the home-made auto gave the child a thrill because his imagination was stirred and he built something with his own hands.

Toys that allow such free play to the thinking faculties are certainly excellent for boys.

Girls also like to build, and especially to construct playthings which have to do with their dolls and a doll's life. The motherhood side of the girl child should never, therefore, be lost sight of.

Meals Family Will Enjoy

THE holiday season is often "trying" on the family purse, especially if one plans to do a great deal of entertaining, and therefore the smart, business-like homemaker starts her Christmas plans very early in the form of serving economical but highly attractive dishes for the family meals and "banking the difference" to meet the contemplated strain of entertaining.

Martha Lee

The protein foods, so necessary in the diet, are by no means cheap, but they are inexpensive when one considers the health value received for each dollar spent.

There are always bargains in meat cuts, especially the less tender cuts, and it is these the homemaker can use to advantage in the preparation of savory, satisfying but inexpensive dishes—for instance, thusly:

SPANISH STEAK

2 Large onions.
1 flank steak.
¼ tsp. pepper.
½ medium sized green pepper.
Browned flour.

Wipe steak with a damp cloth, chop the onions fine and fry in bacon drippings. Remove the onions. Rub with salt and pepper and then brown the steak well on both sides in the drippings. Place the flank steak in a casserole, spread with the onions and green pepper, chopped, then pour over the tomatoes seasoned with ¾ tsp. salt. Cover casserole tightly and bake slowly for 1½ hours in a 350-deg. F. oven. Thicken the liquid with browned flour to make a savory gravy. Serve from the casserole. Baked potatoes, buttered turnips en casserole, graham muffins, apple brown betty with lemon sauce complete the meal.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

When Trifles Grow

By LUCY LOWELL

IT is our lack of thrift with trifles which bankrupts us. With pennies and minutes and words. Each of these in itself is unimportant, but many together form the texture of daily living. We waste little things and accomplish nothing big.

Lucy Lowell

I know a woman who was always broke. She kept a budget faithfully, writing down all her expenditures with the utmost care. She would write down rent so much; insurance so much; food so much; fuel so much. She was very economical about these.

But there was a miscellany department in her ledger and she never could balance this. It always would run away with her, overflow and wipe out the department devoted to savings.

She found out why after a very long time. "I'm always spending little sums. Dimes and nickels and quarters. They don't look like much at the time, but . . ."

She stopped spending dimes and nickels and quarters recklessly. And her miscellaney department came under control and her savings department grew.

It is in exactly this manner that our days [illegible] away from us. We [illegible] work for a ten minute chat. We [illegible] and dream for a quarter of an hour. We worry away an [illegible] and wonder why we get nothing done.

But our greatest waste of all perhaps is the waste of words. Words that mean nothing accomplish nothing. Words that are just sounds.

Conversation gets away from us because we waste so many words.

A Neglected Social Amenity

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is a present to be sent to a new mother to be addressed to the mother?

2. Will you please explain what a party call or dinner call is and when it is made and so forth?

E. R.

YES. Or it is amusing also to address it to the baby if the baby has been named, but "in care of the mother."

2. A "party call" or a "dinner call" is the call that we make after we have attended a party to "pay our respects to the hostess. Conventionally they are supposed to be made between one or two weeks after the date of the party, but, sad to relate, the paying of party calls has been much neglected of late. People formerly had leisure to pay attention to these important courtesies of life, but nowadays life seems so overwhelmingly full of a "number of things" that many of the amenities must be brushed aside. Party calls have, unfortunately, been one of the neglected details. Of course punctilious people always will pay party calls and all of us who have been thoughtfully invited to a party should do so. But the increasing informality of our social life does, it must be admitted, wink at the omission of this kind of call now especially if our hostess understands that we are busy people.

People who are busy professionally during the week are setting aside Sunday afternoon for calls of this kind, and it is a very convenient plan. Also this Sunday afternoon plan makes it possible for wives and husbands to make their calls together. Of course, well after luncheon and still just before tea time.

A woman, when she is making this kind of a call, leaves one of her cards for the hostess of the home, and one for any other ladies of the household. That is, up to three, for nowadays not more than three cards of one kind are left. If she is a married woman she will undoubtedly leave her husband's cards also, and also one of his cards for the wife, one for the husband, and one for the other ladies of the household, if there are any.

Let Kiddies Make Own Gifts

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

CHRISTMAS joy can be wonderfully enhanced if you will let your children make some, if not all of the gifts they intend to give. Now is the time to think of these gifts.

Constance Cameron

The younger the child, of course, the shorter should be the period of work on a gift, and the simpler. It is better not to let a very young child start a piece of work too intricate for him and fail to complete it, for from this attempt he will but derive a sense of failure, and a loss of interest in the whole affair. So, in the following suggestions I have kept away from much sewing, even though your little girl may be eager to attempt it. The sewing of simple things which can be finished in one or two work periods are more satisfactory than the more elaborate and close work.

A very simple present, and one that even a very small child can make, is a group of twelve blotters with the calendar for each of the twelve months pasted in the upper left corner. Dark green blotters with the small calendars, and the whole tied with a bright red ribbon makes an attractive and very useful gift for the desk.

Ony tiny girl, whose grand mother was a domestic person loving to work in her large, light kitchen, made a pleasing gift by buying a medium-sized plant pot, filling it with earth and planting parsley seeds in it. One can find such gay, flower-covered plant pots now in red and green or orange and green that it is a temptation to get one even if there seems to be no immediate use for it. Surely any mother or grandmother would welcome a little container of this type, holding growing parsley for garnishing roasts. The decorated pots are inexpensive, but perhaps your child would enjoy getting a plain one, and giving it a coat of quick drying lacquer of a color to match mother's or grandmother's kitchen. Lacquer can be purchased in 10-cent tins, and one tin will cover three or four flower pots.

For the little girl who is beginning to sew, softcolored outing flannel of two or three thicknesses can be made into holders for use at the kitchen stove. Two or three of these makes a welcome gift for any housewife.

For playmates your youngster can make a small bag, with a string to shut it, out of soft, dark material, with but a little sew-up of short seams. Then let him buy 15 or 20 marbles and tuck them into their bag.

Good looking picture frames of perhaps 8x12 inches can be bought for 50 cents each, and your child will enjoy using some of the lovely magazine covers in colors which we see everywhere now, for the picture to be put inside. This sort of gift is acceptable for the room of a big brother or sister.

Hats That Shade the Eyes Are Again Smart

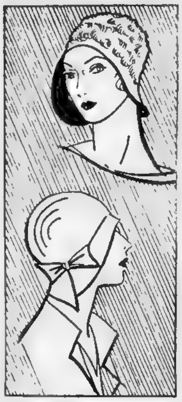
WE shaded our eyes so long that when the exposed forehead became the vogue how quickly it was adopted. But not every woman wanted to show her eyes so brazenly. Brims have been demanded and so brims are back again, as fashionable as ever.

Four of the best types of brimmed hats are sketched here. They are cloche-shaped with width at the side, a type which is flattering to almost every kind of face.

NOTICE how slightly these are trimmed. But this trimming is important. For it harmonizes with the rest of the costume. For example, at the top is a brimmed hat with a tucked crown. This tucking is smartest when it is repeated in some other part of the costume, the blouse, perhaps, or the handbag may also have this trimming.

Two other hats have bows of the same fur as appears on the suit or to match bows of fur which appear on the shoulder or at the neckline of the frock.

A hat in the bottom panel is typical of the new all fur hats. This one of white lambskin has a brim which is faced with felt. Such a hat will complete the all-black costume or the one with a lambskin collar.



AS to the color you will choose for your new brimmed hat, this will also depend on your costume. Black is very smart and of course practical. It is a good choice with a black coat or with a coat which is trimmed with a black fur. However, it is just as smart to match your gown or your coat in color. And you will find such hats are shown in all the smart costume shades of the season, the browns, the greens and the reds.

WHETHER it is a season of high or subdued color, black is always smart. This winter it promises to remain a high fashion. Black with flesh, black with lingerie touches of white and black with beige will be seen frequently. Black furs are especially good. Coats of black caracul, Persian lamb, sealskin, and the all black cloth coat trimmed with black fur are leading fashion factors.

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

Despite all the talk about the stock market's returning to normalcy, trading volume has again crossed anything that might be considered a "normal figure." The recent rise has been termed in various quarters a "pre-Christmas demonstration." If the pace can be kept up until Christmas it will surprise many Mr. brokers who do not want to see any excessive interest in investment but want a real return to normalcy.

rector of the Bank of America for the last five years. Upon recent acquisition of the international investment house of Blair & Co. (now known as Bancamerica-Blair Corporation) his duties were enlarged to cover the latter organization. He was formerly associated in publicity work with the Equitable Trust Co. of New York. Mr. Hevener has done considerable technical writing, literary criticism for national magazines and has also published several short stories. You do not often find a publicity director who also writes fiction.

As previously stated in this column, Mr. Hevener's coming has aroused considerable interest because of the present tendency toward the merging of banks in Boston as well as New York, and the fact that he comes from a New York bank recently involved in one of the largest bank mergers in the country.

Half the total work of the world is done in the United States and the American workman does from three to seven times as much work as the European, according to Dr. Thomas Thornton Read, professor of mining at Columbia University and an internationally known authority on mining and metallurgy. In his study Prof. Read calculated and checked relative amounts of horse-power generated by men from food they eat, by machines from their fuels, by coal and petroleum and by water power in principal countries of the world. The sum total of work done in 14 foreign countries barely equaled the work done in the United States. Thus, while average wage is high in this country, cost of work is low, and the American worker can afford luxuries.

The tariff on wools has long been a bone of New England contention. Its future is hazy. A resume of the woolen items still in controversy at Washington, with rates proposed expressed in "cents per pound," follows:

Item	Sen Rate	House Rate	Pres Law
Woolen rags	24	8	7½
Top and ring waste	34	34	31
Noils carbonized	30	21	24
Noils not carbonized	23	21	19
Thread or yarn waste	23	18	16
Shoddy	21	18	16

The woolen controversy may be ironed out by compromise with the other fights abandoned by fixing a new rate in the Senate on woolen rags at 18 cents per pound. Senators from eastern manufacturing states have held out for 12 cents a pound rate, while the senators from western wool-producing states have insisted on a minimum of 20 cents a pound. There were indications both sides would agree on the 18 cent rate and end the woolen war fare.

Once the woolen schedule is finished the Senate may plunge into its greatest tariff battle over the much disputed sugar schedule. Administration leaders are reported anxious to hold off that battle until all other schedules are completed, hence their immediate plans are somewhat hazy. In the meantime, it was generally agreed the bill will not be passed before Christmas and probably not much before the end of January.

STOCK MARKET DEMAND LED BY RAILS

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL.

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The stock market alternately blew hot and cold today in reflection of frequent shifts of speculative sentiment. The market opened irregularly lower, rallied briskly before the end of the first hour, under the leadership of United States Steel common, and then bobbed up and down in the afternoon, with gains outnumbering losses. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume.

United States Steel common which ran up sharply yesterday on unconfirmed rumors of an early stock splitup, and then plunged downward on the announcement that no directors' meeting is likely before the regular meeting on the last Tuesday of January, advanced 4½ points to 184¼, but had difficulty in maintaining the gain.

The monthly tonnage report showed an increase of nearly 39,000 tons in unfilled orders last month, the third successive increase, but this was accounted for largely by the sharp curtailment in operations rather than from increased business.

Railroad shares were in good demand, the omission of the Norfolk & Southern dividend being offset by an increase from $7 to $8 in the annual rate on Virginian Railway. Pittsburgh & West Virginia was marked up 5 points, Union Pacific 4½, New York Central 4¼, and Baltimore & Ohio, New Haven, New York & Harlem and "Katy" common advanced 3 to nearly 4 points. Activity and strength of St Paul preferred was based on unconfirmed reports of dividend inauguration on that issue early next year.

Public utilities also presented several points of strength, with American Telephone, International Telephone, Western Union and American & Foreign Power in brisk demand. Detroit Edison was one of a few soft spots in that group.

Utah Copper, which did not sell yesterday or last week, jumped 25 points on one sale. A. M. Byers ran up more than 7 points and Simmons and American Can extended their gains to 4 points. Otis Elevator, International Silver, National Biscuit and Eastman Kodak dropped 3 to 5 points.

The official rate for call money was again maintained at 4½ per cent, with a plentiful supply of funds reported to be available. The time money market was firm.

Short covering brought gains of 3 to 5 points in popular trading favorites, including American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Radio, General Electric, Standard Gas & Electric and Columbian Carbon before the upward turn was checked by fresh selling.

Cotton Shipments 80 P. C. of Output

Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York states that production of cotton goods during five weeks of November amounted to 345,146,000 yards. Shipments were 276,377,000 yards, equivalent to 80.1 per cent of production. Sales during the month were 222,911,000 yards, or 64.6 per cent of production.

Stocks on hand at the end of the month amounted to 431,426,000 yards, an increase of 19 per cent during the month. Unfilled orders on Nov. 30 were 342,232,000 yards, a decrease of 13.5 per cent during the month.

New England Equity Earns $4.14 Per Share

New England Equity Corp. reports for 11 months ended Nov. 30 net after charges of $342,861. After allowing for preferred dividend paid and accrued balance is equal to $4.14 a share on 62,500 shares of no-par common then outstanding.

On the 54,545 average number of common shares outstanding for the 11 months net was equal to $4.74 a share. This compares with net for the corresponding period a year ago of $292,196 equal, after preferred dividends, to $4.16 a share on 50,000 common shares then outstanding.

A Nationwide Survey Yields Good Results

Very Small Proportion of Population Affected by Stock Fall

— By B. C. Forbes —

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—Satisfactory progress can be reported. Industrial reports, while mixed, are encouraging under all existing circumstances. Christmas retail buying is exceeding expectations in many centers. Unemployment is being systematically kept down as much as possible by responsible enterprises. The money market is distinctly attractive to borrowers. Stock quotations moved up every day last week, with one exception, yielding a net gain for the week of some 15 points. Hysteria has completely disappeared from Wall Street. And business men, with few exceptions, are living up to the spirit of the Hoover conferences.

B. C. Forbes

Gross farm income for 1928-29 was $12,527,000,000, the highest with the exception of 1925-26, since 1920-21. And Secretary of Agriculture Hyde reports that agricultural conditions are improving and that total income for the current crop year should equal or exceed its predecessor. Conditions and prospects, "joined to the expectation that benefit will accrue to agriculture from the operation of the Federal Farm Board under the new agricultural-marketing act, warrant confidence that better times are in store."

That's far-reachingly important.

These of us who imbibe more or less of the Wall Street atmosphere have a grossly exaggerated idea of the extent to which the rank and file of the people throughout the country have been directly affected by recent happenings. The estimate was recently ventured in this column that less than 5 per cent of our families had suffered direct losses in stocks.

"On a week-end visit to Detroit I learned that an exhaustive national survey had been conducted "to determine basic conditions now existing in general industry, agriculture, wholesale and retail trade, following the Wall Street debacle. Henry Ewald, head of Campbell-Ewald, the far-flung advertising agency, delegated men to interview leading bankers, Federal Reserve executives, government and state officials, wholesale and retail store managers, and newspaper executives."

I have been privileged to examine the just-compiled results. Naturally, unevenness is recorded in different sections. On the whole, however, the picture is far from depressing.

The facts revealed regarding the extent of the public's participation in the stock market decline are worth summarizing here, since they will brush away a lot of misconception and create a truer perspective. Thus:

Georgia—Not over 5 per cent of total families were losers. The average department store buyer is not interested in the stock market and will buy regardless.

Connecticut—It is thought that the market drop took but few of the people with it. No recession of holiday retail trade is looked for.

North Carolina—Very few families were touched and there is no reason why the drop should affect retail trade.

Ohio—About 5 per cent of families lost paper profits. This will not affect retail buying.

Colorado—Apparently 5 per cent would easily catch all the losers. This will not affect retail trade to any great extent.

Iowa—Between 3 and 4 per cent were affected. This will have some influence on general retail conditions.

Texas—Stock losers don't exceed 5 per cent. They were a class who could afford to lose. No effect is noticeable thus far on trade.

Indiana—Only 1 per cent lost in the stock upheaval, it is estimated. This will not injure general trade.

Missouri—Not 5 per cent were affected at all. Farmers remain indifferent to security prices. Retail trade will not be appreciably influenced.

Arkansas—Many of the more wealthy families were caught but the effect will be only minor throughout the state. Buyers are nervous, however, and few chances will be taken.

California—Not over 5 per cent. The effect on trade will be negligible.

Tennessee—Very few families suffered losses. The drop will have no possible bearing on anticipated business.

Minnesota—Results of security crash will not be much in evidence here. Some high-priced commodities may be somewhat retarded.

Maine—Very few affected.

Oregon — Not over 3 per cent. Trade unhurt.

Kansas — Probably not over 10 per cent sustained actual losses. Outlook not in danger thereby.

Wall Street and its doings are tremendously important, but Wall Street does not constitute the whole of the United States. Life throughout the land apparently is going along very much as usual. And that's all that is necessary for reasonable prosperity.

CURB MARKET MOVEMENTS CONFUSING

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Price movements on the Curb market were indecisive and highly confusing today as opposing forces struggled for control.

The heavy selling pressure apparent late yesterday again appeared at the opening, only to give way momentarily during the morning before another bull drive in the utilities. By early afternoon, however, the bull forces weakened under increasing liquidation, and prices once more began to yield.

A firmer tendency in the money market, and a feeling in some quarters that the recovery of the past week had been unjustifiably rapid and had weakened the market's technical position, were depressing factors.

As illustrative of the erratic price movement, Aluminum Co. dropped nearly 13 points to 292 and quickly rallied to 315. American & Foreign Power warrants sagged 2 points during the first half hour, quickly converted their loss into a gain of nearly 4 points, and again turned downward.

It was notable, however, that the volume of trading slackened on declines, and bear drives were unable to dislodge any important volume of stock. Nevertheless, considerable selling appeared on bulges, indicating that much stock, perhaps bought for support purposes a few weeks ago, is still overhanging the market.

American Gas & Electric and Hydro Electric securities were strong spots in the utilities, selling up about 5 points during the morning, but these gains were not maintained. Electric Bond & Share sold up a couple of points, then reacted. American Superpower, selling ex-dividend, was under fairly steady pressure, and Associated Gas A remained sluggish.

In the oils, Gulf encountered considerable profit taking on yesterday's rise, and sold off some 5 points. Humble and Cities Service sagged moderately, while Standard of Indiana held steady, helped by renewed reports that it will soon be transferred to the "big board" to keep company with other leading Standard Oil shares.

Newmont dropped several points, and the Noranda was under considerable pressure, reflecting further uncertainty over the copper price level. Industrials were largely quiet and moved in narrow ranges. National Biscuit new, Deere and Fox Theaters A eased.

SHAWMUT BUYS ON DECLINE

Walter S. Bucklin, president, has addressed a letter to shareholders of Shawmut Bank Investment Trust, setting forth briefly its present condition, as follows:

Following figures are the asset value per share at quarterly intervals during the past year: November 30, 1928, $22.95; February 28, 1929, $30.45; May 31, 1929, $29.55; Aug. 30, 1929, $46.31 (the peak of the market rise); November 30, 1929, $25.90.

In considering asset value per share, capital structure of Trust should be borne in mind. Trust has outstanding $6,000,000 debenture and 75,000 shares of stock. Amount of debentures outstanding, $6,000,000, is a constant which must be deducted from the total market value of assets to determine asset value per share of stock. Consequently variation in market value of entire trust applies to equity represented by stock.

With a total market value of $8,145,000 on Nov. 30, 1929, and debentures outstanding of $6,000,000, equity represented by stock, $2,145,000, was about one-quarter of trust. It follows that fluctuations in the total market value of the assets cause fluctuations in assets value per share of stock several time as great as the latter would be if capitalization consisted of stock alone.

During the recent market decline trustees invested $1,609,600 in common stocks at prices which they believe will prove to have been advantageous. As of close of business Nov. 30 (after making the above-mentioned investment in common stocks) assets of the fund amounted to $8,145,000, including cash in bank and on call of $2,233,000.

During the current fiscal year, which began March 1, 1929, net profits before taxes from sale of securities amounted to $1,074,700, or $14.33 per share. Income from interest and dividends alone for this period, less all expenses and proper allowance for taxes on account of such interest and dividends, has been in excess of the fixed charges.

Seat on Exchange Is Sold Up $25,000

New York, Dec. 10—Arrangements have been made for sale of a Stock Exchange seat at $425,000, an increase of $25,000 over the previous sale.

FEARS VANISH REGARDING BIG TRADE SLUMP

Fears of a money panic have vanished, and fears of a serious depression in business have likewise been proved unjustified, says the American Bankers' Association Journal in its current business discussion.

"Swift and drastic liquidation of banking credit that accompanied the collapse of the stock markets has been followed by a return to normal money rates and a termination of the speculative fever that had become an increasingly unhealthy factor in the business situation," the review says.

"Even before the break in stocks there was apparent some slowing down in industry, and this has naturally been accentuated. It is still too early to accurately forecast the full effect of the decline in stocks on retail trade during the next year. Judging from the factors known at the present time, business in 1930 should be fairly good, but not record breaking. Next year will undoubtedly run below 1929, but should equal 1928, which would be quite satisfactory.

"Curtailment of retail sales because of the stock break has been much less than might be supposed, for the number of margin speculators who were wiped out makes up a very small percentage of the total number of customers, even in the stores of New York city, while in other parts of the country the percentage would be still smaller.

"The swiftness of the liquidation in stock prices was in most ways preferable to a long-drawn-out decline, that would have caused disappointment to security holders week after week and month after month, until a spirit of pessimism would have become firmly fixed in the mind of the entire country. There is a natural tendency for bankers and others in close touch with the security markets to overemphasize the importance of falling quotations. American business, however, is carried on not only in Wall Street, but in Main Street of the cities, towns and villages of 48 states.

"Industrial production continued to decline in December and will make the fourth quarter lower than any of the preceding three, yet there are a host of major industries that will have made new high records for the full year 1929."

Paramount Dividend Raise Is Expected

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, said today that he intended to recommend to directors that the common stock of the corporation be placed on a $4 annual dividend basis, beginning with the payment of April 1 next. The current annual rate is $3.

Directors of the Seiberling Rubber Co., which has paid an annual dividend of $1 at this time for the past two years, will take no action on a common dividend this year, it was announced today.

Cranston Notes

Cranston, R. I., awarded $500,000 notes dated December 10 and payable December 1, 1930, to First National Bank of Boston at 4.47 per cent. Other bidder was S. N. Bond & Co., 4.88 per cent.

COMMERCIAL CREDIT HAS INCOME UP

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 10—The consolidated report of the Commercial Credit Co. for the first 10 months of this year reveals the exceptionally strong position of the company and shows noteworthy increases both in the amount of business handled and in net earnings and net income on capital stock.

Gross purchases of commercial paper made during the period covered by the consolidated report amounted to $387,932,001.17, against $222,663,731.32, for the same period of 1928.

Net income on the capital stock was increased approximately 63 per cent, in the 10 months of 1929 over the same period of 1928. Earnings per share on the average common stock outstanding in the same period of this year were approximately 25 per cent greater than in the same period of last year.

Net income in the ten months ended October 31, 1929, amounted to $6,168,976.33, as against $3,812,018.67, in the same period of 1928. Net income for October of this year increased more than 31 per cent over October, 1928.

The large increase in the dividend reserve for common stock was an outstanding item in the report. This increase for the ten months of this year amounted to $1,162,926.58. After providing for this increase in the dividend reserve on common stock, the company's remaining net operating gain was increased approximately 33 per cent in the ten months of this year over the same period of 1928.

STIFFER MONEY CHECKS BUYING OF BONDS

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The seasonal stiffening of money rates continued to withhold buying orders from the bond market today and prices again moved irregularly in an exceptionally thin market. Most of the changes in the early trading were fractional and a majority was on the down side.

Liberty Fourth 4¼s moved briskly on a small decline. The tendency of the Government group was downward, but volume in most instances was light.

Time loans were quoted nominally at 5 per cent flat for all maturities, representing an advance from yesterday's rates. It was said however, that no money had been offered at the 4½ per cent level on Monday, call funds were in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 4½ per cent.

The small losses that resulted from the lack of interest covered all groups of domestic corporation securities. Rock Island 4s, Erie 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s and Virginian 5s declined less than half a point on the average, while St. Paul 5s, Erie 5s, Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s and a few other rails, improved a shade. International Great Northern adjustment 6s rose more than a point. Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s sagged half a point.

New issues of the day fell in the municipal classification, a City of Albany, N. Y., $2,125,000 loan in 4¼s was marketed to yield 4.05, while Buffalo's $3,590,000 issue of 4s and 4¼s was priced to yield 4 to 4.05.

A Bergen County, N. J., $1,256,000 4½ per cent floatation yielded from 4.25 to 4.50.

WATER POWER IS STUDIED

New York, Dec. 10—While the potential water power of the United States, available 90 per cent of the time, amounts to 34,818,000 horsepower, and that available 50 per cent of the time totals 55,030,000 horsepower, the source of more than two-thirds of this potential power is in the eleven western states, 1000 to 1500 miles from the country's center of population in Indiana, according to Electrical World. It adds that this distance is far beyond the present range of feasible electric power transmission, and that future power demands will apparently have to depend more and more on steam.

"Of the total potential horsepower," the journal states, "there had been developed, at the beginning of the current year, 13,571,530 horsepower, of which only one-eight was in manufacturing and miscellaneous plants, seven-eighths being operated by public utilities.

"Since the actual economically justified installation at a site is often well in excess of that corresponding to the flow during 50 per cent of the year," Electrical World says, "We might seem to have gone only a short distance in making use of this important natural resource.

"But analysis by geographical regions puts the matter in a different light. More than two thirds of the country's potential water power is in the 11 western states: close to 24,000,000 horsepower on the 90 per cent basis; 36,773,000 horsepower on the basis of a stream flow available half the year. Although this region includes great individual projects and its combined installations, totaling 4,403,000 horsepower, comprise nearly a third of the whole it remains the area of greatest undeveloped potentialities.

"Other than in the west the margin between developed and undeveloped power is much smaller. In some sections the installed capacity has passed the potential output available 90 per cent of the time and is not far short of what can be had only half the year.

STUNT FLIER AMAZES ALL AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Despite the winter breezes that swept the airport over on Jefferies Point, everybody on the field stood outside in the cold when J. H. "Red" Harman, chief test pilot for the Alliance Aircraft Corp. of Alliance, O., and chief pilot for the Round Hill Airport, Col. Green's field down at South Dartmouth, put his Argo through its paces.

We thought when we saw the late Billie Leonard do his stuff that we had seen the best commercial stunt flying possible, but this chap Harman actually outdoes Leonard. The best proof of this statement is that shortly before Billie went West, he told us the "Red" stunted the Argo with more polish than he, Billie, did.

With "Red" came Bert Hill, sitting in the front cockpit, and grinning like the Chessy cat. Bert climbed out and whispered that Harman was the works in the Argo company as far as test flying goes, and that after things are straightened out at the factory, "Red" would most likely go out there.

The hop up here from South Dartmouth was made so that Bert could pick up the parachute used by Leonard, and repacked by Harold Kraner, parachute man with the Army air corps at the airport.

STRUTS HIS STUFF

We asked "Red" and Bill if a show was in order, and the answer was given us when Red smiled, climbed into the Argo, and Bert wound up the motor. Because the Argo is such a wonderful airplane, and because no one knew who was flying it, the takeoff "Red" pulled brought everybody from the lowliest grease-monkey to the heads of the commercial companies out to stand around, open mouthed, and not even realizing that it was cold.

Harman hauled the ship off the ground, and kept right on going up, never dropping the nose for an instant, and after a couple of circles, had about 300 feet. Then the ship went into a dive, with the motor wide open. Four slow barrel rolls followed, across the whole width of East Boston, finally winding up at Apple Island.

Still the identity of the stunt pilot was unrevealed. A short dive and the plane was pulled vetrically upward, and a couple of vertical rolls executed.

Harman then looped the bus, and as he came out, wound it around in an aileron spin. By this we mean, he was dropping straight for the ground, and wound the plane around the axis of its fuselage by means of the ailerons on the wings.

BEATS THEM ALL

It seems as though there are so many things one can do with an airplane, and then the limit is reached. For instance, we thought we had seen a few slow rolls in our time. Al Williams and Jimmy Doolittle, crack pilots of the Navy and Army, respectively have shown their stuff. Freddie Lund, of Waco arplanes, has done his stuff. Then came Billie Leonard. Of the last two mentioned, Billie was our idea of the best commercial stunt pilot in the country, and on a par with Williams and Doolittle.

But, without any warning at all, Harman shunted them all to the background. And, without an auxiliary gasoline tank in the undercarriage to keep the motor running when he was upside down.

An idea occurred to Crocker Snow, president of Skyways, Inc., local dealers for the Moth planes. Crocker decided that it would be a good chance to compare the relative speeds of the two planes, and asked Harman to go up in his ship and fly together to see which one was the fastest on straight away flying.

In reality, it developed into a dog-fight, with Snow and Harman chasing tails all around the sky. Throttled down as he was, "Red" finally made up his mind that there was something afoot, and went into the contest in earnest.

Walter Rogers yelled that all we needed was a microphone to make it sound like an air meet. Harman and Snow; round and round, with "Red" gaining altitude on every turn, and Snow fighting to stay with him. Then "Red" straightened out and flew along toward Boston. Snow followed, but they were so far apart that a comparison was impossible.

Letters From Readers

Urges Monument to Witchcraft Victims

Editor Boston American:

The Massachusetts General Court as part of the Tercentenary program, should authorize the appointment of a commission to establish the authenticity of Gallows Hill, Salem, as the site of execution of the so-called witches, in 1692, and then acquire the property for the erection thereon of a suitable memorial to the sublime spiritual victory of the 20 victims, to serve also as a perptual warning against fanaticism and superstition among those in high authority.

It is an astounding indictment of the hypocrisy and vainglory of our political and religious institutions that among the more than plentiful monuments to insignificant and platitudinous heroes and flattering episodes of our national history, there is not a single scultpured reminder of our tragic errors, from which a benign lesson might be taught to future generations.

Why should Massachusetts continue to hang her head in shame because of the witchcraft delusion, when honorable expiation is possible?

The humanitarian of today beholds a faculty of education, emancipated during the past two or three hundred years, but he also realizes that the Christian church, the authoritative source and propagandist of witchcraft, under new names, still rules the State. To support this argument in detail would transcend the bounds of the "freedom" of the press.

Fanaticism today is sought as an aid to moral progress, and even today Christians seek help from God by occult means, seemingly forgetting that they have attributed to their Devil equally potent hidden powers. Spiritual progress is so slow that mass hysteria and slaughter are as imminent today as in 1692.

The innocent and estimable Christian martyrs at Salem, illegally prosecuted, in an hour of panic, fear and hate, by the government of the Massachusetts Bay Colony—which later destroyed its records—victims of the hysterical and malicious accusations of a group of silly children, denounced and consigned to Hell by the religious, educational and judicial leaders of less than 250 years ago, surely deserve some recognition of their Puritan steadfastness, which for the moment turned back a world-tide of superstition, which in the name of God had tortured, hanged, drowned and burned hundreds of thousands of men and women.

Let us at least give their spirits the decent burial which the State has denied their physical bodies, and let us proudly honor that greatest spiritual victory in our history, even though it was a conquest over our native institutions.

Denies Bedouins Conduct Boycott

Editor Boston American:

It is deplorable that the writer of the "Arabs's Memory," in a recent issue of your paper lacks very much accuracy and knowledge of the affairs at Palestine.

You know, Mr. Editor, that Jerusalem is the capital and leading city in Palestine. The class of people who live at Jerusalem are not in the Bedouin group, as the writer understands Bedouinism. They are educators, professional or business men. It is obvious that the merchant class of people conducts and manages the bazaar, not the Bedouins. The Bedouins—though they are in primitive stage but not savages—live far away from Jerusalem, or the boycotting center.

I wish to emphasize that the business class of people conduct the boycotting; not the Bedouin.

Says El Is Right in Ritchie Ad Ban

Editor Boston American:

The Liberal Civic League appears to be considerably disturbed because the trustees of the Boston Elevated are not permitting advertising of the Governor Ritchie meeting to appear on the street and elevated cars.

It is quite evident that the Elevated trustees feel that all matters of a controversal nature, as well as matters pertaining to religion should not be advertised through the medium of this railroad.

Last winter, the committee in charge of the Gypsy Smith Evangelistic Campaign made a like request of the trustees of the Elevated. Our committee felt that inasmuch as the Elevated trustees permitted the advertising of boxing and hockey matches, as well as other events that were being held in the Boston Garden, they would naturally permit the advertising of the Gypsy Smith meetings which were to be held in the same place, and which would be sure to provide many thousands of passengers for the Elevated railroad. The trustees, however, thought differently and turned our committee down in like manner, as they turned down the Liberal Civic League.

Regardless of the fact that the Gypsy Smith meetings were not of a controversial nature, such as the Governor Ritchie meeting, we yielded to the decision of the trustees and made no protest whatever. It would seem as if the Liberal Civic League might well do likewise.

ALLAN C. EMERY

Holds Prosperity Claim Unwarranted

Editor Boston American:

It is not honest to speak of prosperity as a general condition, when, as a matter of fact, four-fifths of our population are barely supporting themselves. Sixty-five per cent of our total population, 76,000,000 people, receive less than $460 per person per annum.

We have in America 1,750,000 families whose income is less than $1000 a year, with 10,300,000 other families getting annually from $1000 to $2000, and with something like 2,000,000 jobless.

The problem is how can we make the industrial machine so efficient that it will provide a comfortable living for all under a far higher standard than present levels of income permit.

Co-Ed's Lipstick Gives Tim Away

Editor Boston American:

The writer in your people's column, who spoke favorably about co-education some time ago has my hearty endorsement. I think it is better for young men and young women to be educated together. But it has its funny side nevertheless.

Of course, young people will kiss one another on the sly. It comes as natural as shaking hands. There is really no harm in kissing. They do more of it abroad than we do here. But into one of the recitation rooms of a co-educational institution, not very far away, a young man came hastily bearing near his lips, a touch of red. He really did not know it.

Every one who saw it knew its origin. He was presented later on with a package of paint remover. Kissing cannot always be hidden these days with ruby lips so prominent.

AT THE DIAL

By THE RADIO EDITOR

SOCONYLAND SKETCH this evening will give a radio version of "Gentian," a popular short story by Mary Wilkins Freeman, in its broadcast at 7:30. The program will be heard through WEEI and northeastern stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

THE romance of a young school teacher in the hills of Colorado will be broadcast at 8:30 by True Romances. It goes on the air over WNAC and stations of the Columbia System supported by an orchestra and a cast of microphone personalities heard in previous broadcasts.

FOUR numbers by Vincent Youmans, popular song writer, will be featured during the Prophylactic Program tonight at 8:30 through WEEI. They are: Oh Me Oh My from "Two Little Girls In Blue," I Want to Be Happy from "No, No, Nanette," Bambalina from "Wildflower" and Hallelujah from "Hit the Deck." The trio will sing Some of These Days, which has been especially arranged for the occasion. Among the up-to-the-minute selections on the program will be I'll See You Again from "Bitter Sweet," Noel Coward's operetta.

COMPOSITIONS of four Russians will be heard when Sophie Braslau, opera star and concert singer, appeares as the featured artists on the Libby Concert Ensemble's program devoted to music from the Land of the Steppes, heard at 8 30 o'clock over station WBZ and a coast-to-coast network. A unique selection will be the unaccompanied singing by Miss Braslau of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Song of the Bride." In the same group are two selections of Mossorgsky, "The Classique," a satire on critics, and "Pain," an interpretation of grief.

Russian gypsy airs are presented by Miss Braslau in her second appearance on the program. As the concluding number, she sings Rubinstein's "Romance" accompanied by the concert orchestra.

Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," arranged for concert presentation, Glinka's overture to "Russlau and Ludmilla" and Glazounow's concert waltz are played by the concert orchestra under the direction of Josef Pasternack.

THE OLD GOLD-Paul Whiteman broadcast over WNAC and the Columbia chain will feature the Brox Sisters as guest artists in the program which begins at 9 o'clock. The Brox Sisters recently returned from a long European engagement in the leading music halls, including a continuous two years at the Champs Elysees Theater in Paris. These talented sisters were starred in such hits as "The Music Box Revue" and Ziegfeld Follies.

CHARLES KING, star of "The Broadway Melody" and "The Hollywood Revue" appearing in person this week at Loew's State Theater, will broadcast over WLOE tonight during Loew's variety interlude, which begins at 10 o'clock. The program will include songs made popular by King in two Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures. Among them are "You Were Meant for Me," "The Broadway Melody," "Your Mother and Mine," "The Wedding of the Pointed Doll," and "Singin' In the Rain." King will also sing a new number, "Happy Days," which is taken from his latest picture, "Road Show."

EDDIE CANTOR, Belle Baker, E. E. Clive and other celebrities of the footlights will be the guest artists in a special program from station WNAC at 11:40 for the benefit of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League Christmas sale. Ives band of Boston will supply a musical program.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Maryland's Governor

By Ernest Hogan Watkins of The New England Humanity

IN the pop-gun warfare which has raged about tonight's public meeting in Symphony Hall the controversialists appear to have lost sight at times of two matters of importance:

1—The speaker.

2—His position.

The Honorable Albert Cabell Ritchie, Governor of Maryland, is one of the foremost members of the Democratic Party.

He is serving his third term as the Chief Executive of the great and friendly State of Maryland, a commonwealth above North, East, South and West for its liberality.

Governor Ritchie has not come among us to "tell Massachusetts how to vote," but is here upon the invitation of gentlemen who believe his story will help our citizen to decide wisely next year on the proposed repeal of the State prohibition enforcement act, known otherwise as the "Baby Volstead" law.

Like our independent little neighbor, Rhode Island, Maryland has no State Enforcement law.

Governor Ritchie will tell us WHY.

He will also describe how the Old Line State has been able to stand up for Law and Order WITHOUT such an ordinance.

A reverend leader of the Prohibitionist forces having characterized the First Citizen of Maryland as "dangerous" and the Public Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway having banned a placard announcing his appearance, it may be taken for granted that he will address a great multitude.

And at the close of the meeting they will know more about the Eighteenth Amendment and the rights of the States.

Hold On! Says Britain

What Right Has Byrd in the Antarctic?

Copyright, 1929

THE British frankly admit that they are surprised and shocked, by the presence of Comdr. Byrd near the South Pole. They say: "Byrd has established himself there without so much as a by your leave."

Britain, of course, was the one supposed to give us leave.

That should surprise nobody. The British will have the same feeling if when they get to Heaven they find many Americans sitting in the best places without permission from British authority.

In the Antarctic matter, the British, who had some more or less successful explorers down there at various times, probably suspect that Uncle Sam has found gold mines or oil wells, or expects to find them, or plans to take all the whales in very numerous in the Antarctic.

An official British publication, speaking of Britain's claim to the Falkland Islands, says: "The territory extends to the South Pole, and this area contains about 3,100,000 square miles."

Originally this slice of the earth claimed by Britain included parts of Chile and the Argentine. But the British omit now that that was a blunder.

Perhaps they'll admit some other blunders by the time Byrd and the Americans get through with the Antarctic.

If we find anything there, we'll take it, and our good British cousins will be surprised to find how little "by your leave" we shall require.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A girl living within the modestly furnished confines of those unfashionable blocks in the purple haze of twilight since the upheaval in Wall st. has grown increasingly tragic. Hundreds in the 60s and 70s fondle empty jewel cases and face apartment evictions.

Margin players themselves, they were taken for the proverbial "cleaning," and sugar daddies are few to aid for they too are "broke." Such creatures come under the heading of "Luxuries" and for the time being are out on the limb.

One of these charming young women, until the market mad Richard Carroll fortune, was a familiar figure in the afternoon at the Ritz examining the wares and chiseling some sorry coffee at the stag table. Two years later, He got their pals at the pier, carried them off in a cafe for a dinner celebration on the way home. An old hobart to stand, he terrific [illegible] on the floor of his limousine in a dead faint. He is now in a wheel chair.

It seems to me to be a dirty shame in this personal [illegible] put in a morning paper. [illegible] only employed as a ten [illegible] mistress in a Jersey town [illegible] like to meet some people of intelligence. Box 2A."

Louis Mann's enormously wide-lapped high collar has long been one of the Broadway institutions. He was actually offered $500 a week for advertising space in it. Mr. Mann has the happy facility of laughing off the jibes, and the collar has endured for 24 years. There is no particular mystery about its origin or continuance. A similar collar was worn in one of the actor's early plays. It was comfortable and, he thought, becoming. Thus in time it became his trade mark.

The theater has many who are distinctive for some odd sartorial doodad—Ziegfeld for his blue collars, George White for his tiny bow tie, Walter Catlett for his Bronzini shirts without cuffs, famous for his reversible collar, Harold Carroll for his paisley dressing gown, George M. Cohan for his brown cap, and Walter Hampden for his puff tie.

Writes an ex-service man: "The trouble with the last war was the fellows who got it up didn't fight in it." And there's a brilliant editorial in a homely sentence.

She came out of a hotel lobby with that exquisite glaze a beauty parlor imparts and an imperious tilt to her head. She stood at the curb obviously agitated. A cavalier detached himself from a group nearby and with a sweeping bow inquired: "May I be of service, Madam?"

"You may call a cab," she replied coldly, "but don't let it work you into a flirtation."

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

THE amount of specialized tissue that a body can lay down is limited. For this reason, after we have lived for some forty years our more specialized tissues begin to wear away; gradually, but with gathering speed, we lose weight.

This wearing away chiefly involves the more specialized tissues of connective tissue, which consists of anatomically undifferentiated cells floating about among a scaffolding that they have built up, is relatively unaffected. It is the brain and muscles, the kidneys and liver that shrink. We cannot see or hear as acutely as before, our muscles are less powerful, our digestion is less efficient, our brains less active and less accurate.

The chemical basis of this wearing out is at present not understood. Old age seems to be associated in some way with an excess calcium metabolism, the [illegible] of calcium salts into the blood. Moreover, there seems to be an accumulation of poisonous substances in the blood.

The slow exhaustion of old age may also be complicated by other changes in the great majority of old people that are in all cases is a gradual stiffening (sclerosis) of the arteries, and there may be a similar stiffening in other tissues.

Sooner or later one or other of the essential organs fails and the body dies.

It is important to realize that our cells do not die because mortality is inherent in their internal structure. They die because they are parts of a very complicated system based on cooperation, and sooner or later one of the tissues lets the others down. Death is a consequence of incomplete organization; the tissues die because they are parts of an imperfectly balanced body.

How far it may be possible for a body to sustain its balance and continue indefinitely, or at least for a much longer period than the normal life of its species, is an interesting matter for speculation. Such a prolongation is not Nature's ordinary way.

H. G. Wells

But there are longlived species which do remain recuperative for relatively long periods. Parrots will last out 80 years and eagles a hundred, and such a fish as the carp, especially if it is protected from external danger in a garden pond, seems able to go on almost without a limit.

There is evidence for 150-year-old carp and for pike which have lasted for two centuries. Some trees have an enormous span of life. The baobab of Cape Verde is supposed to endure 5000 years and the Sequoiagigantea of California almost as long.

The prolongation of the restless, various human life is a much more complex issue than that of keeping alive a captive bird or fish.

Ilya Metschnikov was disposed to ascribe many of the phenomena of senility to decay in the large intestine, and sought to correct this by a liberal use of koumisse—soured milk, such as the long-lived Tartars consume—which abounds in bacteria whose products check intestinal putrefaction.

For a time koumisse was a fashionable drink among the elderly, but after the death of Metschnikov at the age of 71, faith in his remedy declined.

In the young and developing adult certain secretions from the intestinal tissues of the reproductive glands play an invigorating part in the growth and strengthening of the body, and various experimenters have tried to restore the dwindling supply of these secretions as age comes on. Steinach seeks this end by local surgery which for a time at least reanimates the declining tissue.

Voronov grafts new tissues taken from young apes in the effective region. There are other fairly obvious applications by injection and so forth, of the same idea.

Resort is also made to the substance and secretions of the thyroid, the pituitary body and other ductless glands which influence the growth processes.

Steinach, Voronov and various other workers undoubtedly produced some remarkable rejuvenescences.

But also they have had distinct failures and disappointments. Much more experiment is needed in this direction before we can confidently and safely hold back the advance of age.

To Be Continued Tomorrow

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

HOW fascinating a man finds one woman usually depends a lot on how much he is beginning to be bored with some other woman.

Being offered a love which he can't requite, when he is longing for one that he can't get, is to a man like being offered a lettuce sandwich and a cup of tea, when he is longing for a cocktail and a hearty meal.

Getting a man to change his wet shoes and socks is almost as hard as getting him to change his political platform or his pet predilections in neckties.

Some day some philanthropist will erect a statue to "The Wife"—showing a patient figure, holding a clean shirt in one hand and a dose of bicarbonate of soda in the other.

Marriage is to a man like a motor-accident: he never has a premonition of it, beforehand—and never can tell you, afterward, just how it happened to him.

No, children, the Venus de Milo did not lose her arms trying to powder her back for the new evening gowns; she probably lost them in trying to hold onto her husband with one hand and to her individuality with the other.

You can't change the leopard's spots by sending him to the dry-cleaner's—nor erase all the traces of a few nights of whoopee by a visit to the barber or the beauty parlor.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

SOMETIMES I complain that I can not forget
I would thrust from my mind all old memories; yet,
What were life without laughter of dear vanished days
And the sunlight of love which once brightened its ways?

All the past was not fashioned of music and song;
There was sorrow sometimes; there was trouble and wrong.
Yet the hazes of time have so veiled those hours
That the whole seems recalled, had the fragrance of flowers.

And that fragrance, adrift down life's age-shadowed years,
Is a talisman barring the folly of fears.
Sometimes I have fancied forgetting is best,
Yet the memory of dawn may still brighten the West.

Looking Through Herself

If We Only COULD See Ourselves Through and Through

Copyright, 1929

SEE THROUGH YOURSELF. FEW CAN DO THAT.

Few of us see through ourselves, much less through each other. Others can hide their thoughts from us. Their motives are unknown, and their real opinions of us are unknown.

It is natural that we should not be able to see through THEM.

But NOTHING IS CONCEALED FROM OURSELVES CONCERNING OURSELVES.

We know what we THINK. We know what we PLAN. We know our many failures and our occasional successes.

We know how often we have made resolutions and broken them. We know how, over and over again, we let opportunity pass by.

We know how much time we devote to criticising others, and how little to criticising ourselves.

We OUGHT to be able to see through ourselves as Miss Helm in this photograph sees through herself.

We go through life DECEIVING ourselves.

That knowledge, most important in life, is knowledge possessed by few of us, and by NO MAN entirely.

If a man has a machine he wants to understand it.

If a man has a business he wants to understand it.

But to all of us the most important machine, the most important business, the most important book is OURSELVES.

And concerning ourselves we deliberately DECEIVE ourselves.

We rarely blame ourselves. When an automobile breaks down the owner does not blame ANOTHER automobile across the street. He blames the automobile that breaks down.

But if HE breaks down and fails he looks across the street and blames some other man, some "boss that never gave him a chance," everything BUT himself.

However, there is something worse than not knowing yourself, and that is THINKING OF NOTHING ELSE BUT YOURSELF, wasting time and energy on yourself instead of putting both on work that counts.
